FROM THE SOUTH.

Important News from Mississippi.

Gen. Sherman Falling Back on Vicksburgh.

His Movement Considered a Feint to Draw Troops from Johnston.

Rebel Alarm at Grant's Movements in Georgia.

Appointment of Gen. Bragg as Commander-in-Chief.

We have received files of Richmond papers from Feb. 22 to Feb. 29, inclusive, from which we make the following interesting extracts:

SHERMAN'S MOVEMENTS IN MISSISSIPPI.

The intelligence concerning Gen. Sherman's movements which we find in the Southern papers is fragmentary, contradictory, and more or less indefinite, but from a multitude of dispatches we take the following, from which we gather, that Sherman is now on his way back to Vicksburgh:

SHERMAN'S FORCES RETREATING TO VICKSBURGH.

From the Richmond Examiner, Feb. 24.

We have important news this morning from Sherman's expedition. An official dispatch was received at the War Department last night, from Gen. Polk, stating that Sherman's forces had evacuated Meridian, and were retreating in two columns in the direction of Vicksburgh. It is supposed that the Yankee Commander, finding his designs on Mobile thwarted and his cavalry reinforcements intercepted, and being in distress for supplies, was forced to abandon his expedition and betake himself to the desperate expedient of a retreat through a country stripped of its supplies and laid waste by his advance. Whether he can accomplish a retreat with success, remains to be seen. The whole country from Jackson to Meridian is said to be devastated. It is said that in Raymond, Clinton, Brandon and Jackson, not a single house is left standing except the public buildings. Along Sherman's line of advance the farms were laid waste, the fences destroyed, and residences given to the flames. The Yankee commander is reported to have boasted in a speech before he left Memphis, that he would subdue the spirit of the people of Mississippi by a system of barbarities never before practiced upon any people. These are now likely to react upon their guilty author; and his retreat lies through the desert he had left in his rear.

THE SITUATION IN THE SOUTHWEST.

From the Richmond Examiner, Feb. 27.

Our Southern exchanges bring us but little as to the situation of affairs in Mississippi. The accounts we get represent Sherman's entire army as certainly retreating to Vicksburgh. A special dispatch from De Soto to the Mobile Register says:

An intelligent citizen of Enterprise, held in custody by the enemy during their stay, expressed the opinion that the entire army will move toward Vicksburgh.

After burning the bridge this side of Quitman, and the public buildings and some private houses in the town, the enemy returned to Enterprise.

Yesterday morning the whole force at Enterprise moved off toward Meridian.

Another dispatch from De Soto says:

"A person from Enterprise to-day states that parties who have come through from Meridian report that the Yankees left that place yesterday morning, going west."

DEMOPOLIS, Tuesday, Feb. 23.

The enemy's forces along the line of the Mobile and Ohio Railroad are making a retrograde movement in the direction of the Mississippi River. Their mounted infantry in North Mississippi are also retiring, being closely pressed by Gens. Forrest and Lee.

DEMOPOLIS, Ala., Sunday, Feb. 21.

The main column of the enemy is still at at Meridian. A detachment has occupied Lauderdale, on the Mobile and Ohio Railroad. A portion of a column of mounted infantry have occupied Aberdeen.

From the Montgomery Mail, Feb. 18.

The enemy, on arriving at Meridian, appears to have put on his "thinking cap." For two days he has made no serious advance in any direction. Meanwhile, our army is reported to have crossed the Tombigbee river at Moscow, and at present, to be in position on this side. The purposes of the enemy are still shrouded in mystery. Everything is mere conjecture as to his probable movements.

THE ENEMY STILL ADVANCING FROM MERIDIAN.

From the Richmond Examiner, Feb. 25.

Rumors report the enemy still advancing from Meridian, but the accounts are conflicting in this statement. One rumor represents the enemy to have reached Cuba station, twenty miles east of Meridian, but the Mississippian contradicts this, and says:

"It is certain, however, that Sherman has not advanced to Cuba Station, twenty miles east of Meridian. If he had, his stay would be short there, as there is but little left in Lauderdale County to sustain either man or beast. The enemy do not seem desirous of venturing into the unproductive and sterile country lying between Meridian and Demopolis. To-morrow may bring something definite—news, perhaps, of the enemy's retreat or of his continued advance toward Selma. Having met with but little resistance thus far, Sherman may conclude to push on for Selma and Montgomery, only pausing at Meridian to obtain reinforcements from some other point."

A dispatch from Enterprise says:

"There has been no movement of the enemy in this direction. The general opinion among well-informed persons from the vicinity of the Yankees, seems to be that their purpose is to continue their march, centrally, toward Selma, where they expect to meet another column, and thence move forward to the rear of Gen. Johnston."

Per contra, the Mississippian of a late date says:

"We learn from persons from Demopolis that Gen. Polk has crossed the Tombigbee at Moscow, ten miles below Demopolis, with his army—with the exception of Gen. French's Division, which is at Demopolis. It is expected that the enemy will be checked at the Tombigbee, and that a battle will take place there in a day or two. The banks of the Tombigbee furnish excellent natural fortifications and a splendid line of defence. It may, however, be sound policy to allow the enemy to cross the Tombigbee. If he is permitted to do so, his destruction is absolutely certain, if our commanders and troops meet public expectation. If his force is no larger than the telegraph makes it, there is no escape for him except through the supineness of the people and soldiery, or the most extraordinary want of skill in our commanders."

THE EVACUATION OF MERIDIAN.

From the Mobile Register.

A private dispatch from Enterprise, dated last evening, states that our forces evacuated Meridian Sunday morning. The Government property was all saved, and nearly, if not all, the machinery of the railroad company. Our troops retired in good order in the direction of the Bigbee River. The last train above on the Mobile and Ohio Railroad passed Meridian at one P. M., yesterday, and reported the enemy in full view, just entering the town. The train was not fired on, and no effort was made to stop or delay it.

From the Selma Mississippian.

Sunday forenoon Lee entered the place with a portion of his cavalry, and destroyed everything we could not carry off that would be of any service to the enemy. A cavalry fight took place in town, resulting in the enemy's defeat. Lee drove them back to the infantry support, and that evening Meridian was given to them, cleared of all the Government property, as well as railroad cars and locomotives. Lee was compelled to burn some of the rolling stock that could not be got away.

From the Mobile Register.

Everything was saved at Meridian, including two thousand bales of Government cotton, several hundred hogsheads of sugar, immense supplies of Commissary, Quartermaster and Ordnance stores.

THE EFFECT OF SHERMAN'S MARCH.

From the Atlanta Appeal.

A gentleman who was with Polk's command when it fell back from Morton, and left Meridian on the 11th, brings us sorrowful intelligence of the ravages committed by Sherman in his march through Mississippi. He is carrying out his threat in his late Memphis speech, that he would make the people feel his power. Raymond, Clinton, all of Jackson except the public buildings, Brandon, and even the little village of Morton, were given to the flames. On the route many dwellings and all the outbuildings and farming utensils were destroyed. He desires to make the people dependent, with a view to make submission to the military government he proposes to establish a necessity. The Yankees burned about ninety stores and vacant houses in Jackson. Gen. Wirt Adams came upon and destroyed about fifty wagons, killing mules and drivers with pistols.

THE LATE CAVALRY FIGHT IN MISSISSIPPI.

DEMOPOLIS, Friday, Feb. 26.

Later intelligence from Mississippi says that Gen. Forrest's forces, during the recent engagement near Okolona, did not exceed 2,000, while that of the enemy is estimated at 10,000. Late in the evening of the 22d the latter formed three separate lines and made a desperate stand. They made three charges, in each of which they recoiled and were driven back with great slaughter. Many of them passed through our lines and were captured. The next morning the road was lined with sutlers' stores, dead horses and Yankees.

Gen. Forrest's command was too tired to continue the pursuit. Gen. Gholson, with six or seven hundred State troops, arrived and went in pursuit. Many of the enemy's wounded fell into our hands. Among our wounded is Col. Barteau of Bell's Brigade, severely in the breast. Gen. Gholson captured many prisoners, small arms, sabres, saddles, and was pursuing their routed columns above Pontotoc.

From the Richmond Examiner, Feb. 23.

We learn that in the evacuation of Meridian by our troops there was no loss of public stores or ammunition, these having been removed in good time to Demopolis.

The Mississippian says that the best estimate it has of the force of the enemy is as follows: Two columns of infantry, of 35,000 men, and 15,000 cavalry. The advance guard consists of cavalry, followed by a column of infantry—then the wagon train, consisting of 1,200 wagons, guarded on either side by a file of men four deep—then another column of infantry, with cavalry in the rear.

Gen. Polk telegraphed yesterday that our cavalry had got between Sherman and his cavalry reinforcements, and had probably by that time engaged them; and he expresses a moral assurance of the success of the expedition.

AFFAIRS AT MOBILE.

MOBILE, Tuesday, Feb. 23.

The enemy opened fire on Fort Powell at 10½ o'clock this morning. A dispatch this evening says that six mortars and four gunboats shelled all day, firing three hundred and sixty-four shots. No casualties and no damage.

From the Richmond Examiner, Feb. 27.

Now that Sherman's force is dispersed or withdrawn, there appears to be but little anxiety as to anything Farragut may accomplish with his fleet off Mobile. He would find it very difficult to get his vessels through the shallow waters of the passes and the forts. The Mobile Register remarks: "His 'Hartford frigates' and his monitors 'can have no place in the picture,' and we have nets enough set for his smaller crafts. He must come here then with a large army, and he must come to encounter the best Confederate troops behind the best and strongest works that have been erected in the South.

From the Mobile Register, Feb. 18.

A private letter from Fort Powell, to the editor of this paper, says: "The excitement here has subsided this morning. Commodore Farragut, with his fleet, was at Grant's Pass (twenty-four miles below here) yesterday, and sent over a few of his cards at Fort Powell, but hauled off again in the evening. This was, probably, on account of the water being so low that they could not get over the bar. There has been a strong north wind for the past few days, which drives the tide out, and from that cause the water is, probably, lower on the bar than it has been for some time. Should the wind change to the south a different stage of water may be anticipated."

THE FORTIFICATIONS OF MOBILE.

A correspondent writes of the fortifications of Mobile:—"The fortifications at Mobile are being pushed forward to completion, and are of the most formidable nature, being almost the first self-infilading works properly and scientifically constructed in all our numerous besieged places. A comparatively small force of infantry—nearly all of whom are also drilled as artillerists—will be enabled to hold these works against almost any attack. Gen. Polk's main force, outside of Mobile, are near 'Chunk Station,' but a portion of the army has been sent to reinforce Enterprise."

THE WAR IN FLORIDA.

A DISPATCH FROM GEN. FINNEGAN.

From the Richmond Examiner, Feb. 24.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. Feb. 21.

To the President:

I have just received the following dispatch from Gen. Finnegan, dated yesterday:

I met the enemy in full force to-day, under Gen. Seymour, and defeated him with great loss. I captured five pieces of artillery, hold possession of the battle-field, and the killed and wounded of the enemy. My cavalry are in pursuit. I do not know precisely the number of prisoners, as they are being brought in constantly. My whole loss will not, I think, exceed two hundred and fifty killed and wounded. Among them I mourn the loss of many brave officers and men.

I understand that Gen. Finnegan also captured many small arms.

(Signed,) JOHN MILTON, Gyverner.

A DISPATCH FROM GEN. BEAUREGARD.

From the Richmond Examiner, Feb. 25.

The following dispatch was received at the War Department yesterday. Though it adds no precise particulars to those already known, it gives a glowing confirmation to our success:

CHARLESTON, Feb. 23—2:15 P. M.

To Gen. S. Cooper:

The latest reports from Gen. Finnegan give no particulars of the victory at Occum Pond, except that he has taken all of the enemy's artillery, some five or six hundred stand of small arms already collected, and that the roads for three miles are strewed with the enemy's dead and wounded.

(Signed,) G. T. BEAUREGARD.

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE N. Y. TIMES.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, March 2.

THE EXCHANGE OF PRISONERS.

For several months an unofficial correspondence has been going on between Gen. Butler and Mr. Ould, the rebel Exchange Commissioner, on the matter of exchanges. This correspondence has resulted in a declaration of exchange of all rebel prisoners, delivered at City Point prior to Jan. 24.

KILPATRICK'S MOVEMENTS.

Nothing reliable has reached Washington this evening concerning Kilpatrick's movements. There was a report at Brandy Station to-day, brought in by a deserter, that our cavalry had torn up several miles of the track of the Virginia Central Railroad between Louisa Court-house and Tolersville. A deserter further states that troops which had been dispatched to Richmond to defend it against our cavalry were obliged to return, owing to a break in the road. Several bridges were destroyed. The rebels cannot repair the damage in less time than ten days. We shall probably hear of Kilpatrick at Suffolk.

STILL ANOTHER DRAFT.

The Provost-Marshal-General to-day informed a member of Congress that a new draft would be ordered as soon as the present one was filled.

ADMIRAL DAHLGREN AT WASHINGTON.

Admiral Dahlgren arrived here this evening incog. It is rumored that he has been relieved from the command of the iron-clad fleet off Charleston. Admiral Farragut will probably be appointed to succeed him.

BOUNTIES IN THE REGULAR ARMY.

By order of the Secretary of War, all soldiers who shall enlist or be reënlisted into the regular army for the period of three years, are entitled to a bounty of $400, to be paid as follows:

1. Upon enlistment they shall be paid one month's pay in advance, $13. First installment of bounty, $25. Premiums, $2. Total on enlistment, $40. 2. at the first regular pay-day after two months' service an additional instalment of bounty will be paid, $50. 3. At the first regular pay-day after six months' service, an additional installment of bounty will be paid, $50. 4. At the first regular pay day after the end of the first years' service, an additional installment of bounty will be paid, $50. 5. At the first regular pay-day after eighteen months' service, an additional installment of bounty will be paid. 6. At the first regular pay-day after two years' service an additional installment of bounty will be paid, $50. 7. At the first regular pay-day after two years' and a half service an additional installment of bounty will be paid, $50. 8. At the expiration of three years' service the remainder of the bounty will be paid, $75.

HOSTAGES EXCHANGED.

Capts. Sawyer and Flynn, who were sentenced to death by the rebel authorities at Richmond, in retaliation for the hanging of two spies, by Gen. Burnside, have been exchanged.

THE SENATE MILITARY COMMITTEE.

The Senate Military Committee, after disposing of a large number of military appointments, took up the House Bill extending the bounties to the 1st of April. The committee, not having any definite information upon the subject, and not knowing the views of the War Department in reference to it, addressed a letter to-day to the Secretary of War for the purpose of learning what legislation the department reuqired. The Committee reported back to-day several nominations for confirmations, among them the name of Gen. Grant for Lieutenant-General.

THE DEFICIENCY BILL.

The Ways and Means Committee to-day had under consideration the Deficiency Bill. The committee reported against several of the Senate's amendments, and asked for a committee of conference. The Senate added to this bill some eighty millions deficiencies in the war and navy estimates. There is little, if any, prospect of getting up the gold bill this week, as a single objection will postpone it from day to day.

THE PROPOSED AIR LINE RAILROAD.

Mr. Garrett, President of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, was to-day before the House Special Committee on the Air Line Railroad to New-York. He stated the condition of the road at the time of the breaking out of the rebellion, and that since that time they had added upward of eighteen miles of double-track, and had carried as high as four hundred cars of freight per day. Their facilities, he contends, are amply sufficient for the present wants of the country, and that to build another road it will take at least three years and cost over six millions of dollars. Mr. Felton, President of the Philadelphia and Wilmington Road, was before the committee to-night. He claims that his road is nearest to an air line of any that can be built between Baltimore and Philadelphia; that the bridge over the Susquehanna is rapidly being completed, and that another track will shortly be laid.

DISPATCHES TO THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, March 2.

THE WHISKY BILL CONFERENCE COMMITTEE.

The free Committee of Conference on the disagreeing amendments to the Whisky Bill ordered to-day, consists of Senators Sherman, Clarke and Hendricks, and Representatives Morrill, Kasson and Spaulding. The Senate having disagreed to the House instructions to tax whisky on hand for sale, and the House having, in effect, receded from them, the committee will have an unembarrassed or free conference.

THE DRAFT TO COMMENCE ON THE 10TH INST.

The following circular was issued to-day:

WAR DEPARTMENT,
PROVOST-MARSHAL-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
WASHINGTON, March 2. 1864.

Boards of Enrollment will commence on the 10th inst. to make the draft in all sub-districts which had not filled their quotas before the 1st inst. All volunteers who may enlist before the draft is actually made, will be deducted from the quotas by the Board of Enrollment, in accordance with orders to be given on each case by the A. A. Provost-Marshals-General of the States. If the quota shall not be filled by the first draft, the board shall make further drafts until the entire quota is obtained.

(Signed) JAMES B. FRY,
Provost-Marshal-General.

LIEUTENANT-GENERAL GRANT.

The Senate, in Executive Session to-day, unanimously confirmed the nomination of Ulysses S Grant, now a Major-General in the military service, to be Lieutenant-General in the army of the United States.

MEDICAL INSPECTOR-GENERAL.

Joseph K. Barnes was also confirmed as Medical Inspector-General, with the rank of Colonel, in the army of the United States.

OTHER NOMINATIONS CONFIRMED.

Henry Dealinger, to be Collector of the Internal Revenue in the District of Oregon, and H. L. Nowell, Collector of Internal Revenue for the Second District of Tennessee; Wm. McAlbin, of Missouri, Superintendent of Indian Affairs for the Central Superintendency; and the following to be Indian Agents: J. E. Upson, of Kansas, for the Blackfeet and the other neighboring tribes; Alfred R. Elder, of Washington Territory, for the Territory, and Robert W. Furnas, of Nebraska Territory, for the Omaha Agency.

PROCEEDINGS OF CONGRESS.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, March 2.

RECORD OF THE NAVY ADVISORY BOARD.

The Vice-President laid before the Senate a report of the Secretary of the Navy, transmitting a copy, in answer to the resolution, of the record of the proceedings of the Advisory Board appointed under the Act of July 16, 1862. Referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

LIENS UPON VESSELS.

Mr. Cowan, of Pennsylvania, (Union,) presented a memorial from the Board of Trade of Philadelphia, praying that the provisions of the Act of March 3, 1863, entitled "An Act to protect liens upon vessels in certain cases," be extended. Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

NIAGARA SHIP CANAL.

Mr. Sherman, of Ohio, (Union,) presented a petition from the citizens of Ohio, praying for the construction of a ship canal around Niagara Falls. Referred to the Committee on Commerce.

FOREIGN IMMIGRATION.

On motion of Mr. Sherman, the bill to encourage foreign immigration was taken up. He submitted some amendments which were adopted, and the bill passed.

LINE OFFICERS IN THE NAVY.

Mr. Grimes, of Iowa, (Union,) introduced a bill to amend the act of July, 1862, to establish and equalize the grade of line officers in the United States Navy. This bill requires the establishment by a board of examiners senior to the person examined, of the mental, moral and professional fitness of the candidate for nomination to any office lower than Commodore. If an officer fails in the examination, he is to be placed on the retired list. No further appointments upon the active list are allowed till the number is reduced to that now required by law.

PAY OF MILITARY CADETS.

Mr. Wilson, of Massachusetts, (Union,) from the Committee on Military Affairs, reported a bill in relation to the pay of cadets at the Military Academy, with amendments.

PUBLIC WORKS.

Mr. Wade, of Ohio, (Union,) introduced a bill making appropriations for the repair, preservation and completion of certain public works, heretofore commenced by authority; which was referred to the Committee on Commerce.

The bill provides for the expense of dredging by steam in Lakes Champlain, Ontario, Erie and Michigan, and for the improvements in the harbors of the three last named.

THE MANAGEMENT OF THE ARMIES.

Mr. Wilkinson, (Union,) of Minnesota, rising to a personal explanation, read from the Boston Post a recent speech of Gov. Andrew in Faneuil Hall, criticizing a recent speech of his in the Senate Chamber, in reference to the comparative merits of the Eastern and Western armies. He denounced the sketch of this speech from Gov. Andrew quoted as garbled, and said that he should have been assured of its authenticity before arraigning him for having spoken a word in derogation of the troops from the East. Mr. Wilkinson then read from the Globe the remarks he made in the Senate the other day, in which he imputes the repeated want of success of the Army of the Potomac to the want of capacity on the part of the officers, and not to any want of courage on the part of the men.

[Mr. Wilkinson proceeded to comment at length upon the management of the armies, and at the conclusion of his remarks, Messrs. Johnson, Wade, Wilson and Anthony made remarks of an interesting character, which our crowded space compels us to omit this morning.—ED. TIMES.]

THE FLORIDA DISASTER.

Mr. Hendricks, (Dem.,) of Indiana, in view of the subject presented in the debate, offered a joint resolution of inquiry into the late disaster in Florida, and under whose direction it was made. Adopted.

THE WHISKY BILL.

Mr. Sherman, (Union,) of Ohio, called up the subject of the disagreeing votes on the Whisky Bill. He called attention to the message from the House, and offered a resolution that the request of the House, for another Committee of Conference, with instructions to agree upon a tax of not less than 20 or at the most 40 cents on spirits or domestic liquors on hand, be acquiesced in.

A lengthy debate ensued on the question as to the proper parliamentary mode in a proceeding of this kind.

Mr. Sherman's resolution was rejected.

YEAS.—Messrs. Anthony, Dixon, Doolittle, Foote, Foster, Grimes, Harlan, Harris, Howard, Morrill, Ramsay, Sherman, Wilkinson, Wilson—15.

NAYS.—Messrs. Buckalew, Carlisle, Clark, Conness, Cowan, Davis, Fessenden, Harding, Henderson, Hendricks, Howe, Johnson, Lane of Indiana, Lane of Kansas, Morgan, Nesmith, Pomeroy, Powell, Saulsbury, Sumner, Ten Eyck, Van Winkle, Wade, Willey, Wright—25.

Mr. Grimes, of Iowa, (Union,) thought they had better get rid of the whole subject as it was evident the Senate and the House could not agree, and let the matter come up in a new bill.

He moved that the subject be indefinitely postponed.

The motion was rejected.

Finally, a motion of Mr. Conness, that the Senate disagree to the resolutions of instructions prepared by the House, and agree to a free committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses, was adopted.

The Senate then went into Executive session, and shortly afterward adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, March 2.

PROTECTION TO OVERLAND EMIGRATION.

The House passed the Senate bill appropriating $40,000 for military protection to the overland emigrants to the Pacific States and Territories.

The route is through the Indian country, a distance of six or eight hundred miles, and is infested by robbers and highwaymen.

PERSONALITIES.

Mr. McClurg, of Missouri, (Union,) asked leave to make an hour's speech relative to the personalities of his colleagues, Messrs. King and Blair, but objection was made.

LARCENY OF PUBLIC PROPERTY.

On motion of Mr. Julian, of Indiana, (Union,) the Committee on the Judiciary were instructed to inquire whether there is any statute punishing larceny of public property by any Federal court, when the crime is not committed on the high seas or in places where the United States have not exclusive jurisdiction; and whether there is any statute to punish the murder of any officer of the United States unless the act is committed in places over which the United States have exclusive jurisdiction.

Mr. Eldridge, of Wisconsin, (Dem.,) asked, but failed to obtain leave to introduce a resolution calling on the President, Secretary of State and Secretary of War to furnish the names of all persons arrested and confined in forts and prisons who have not been tried or convicted by any civil or criminal court, and also the names of those who have been banished to the rebellious States.

THE MINERAL RESOURCES.

Mr. Julian, of Indiana, (Union,) introduced a bill to develop the mineral resources of the public domain. Referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

VENEZUELA AFFAIRS.

On motion of Mr. Davis, of Maryland, (Union,) of the Committee on Foreign Affairs, a resolution was adopted calling upon the President of the United States to communicate all correspondence not already transmitted, relative to Mexican and Venezuelan affairs.

INDEMNIFICATION FOR WAR LOSSES.

The House then proceeded to the consideration of the bill declaring that the jurisdiction of the Court of Claims shall not extend to or include any claim against the United States growing out of the destruction of or depredations on property by the army and navy engaged in the suppression of the rebellion.

Mr. Thomas, of Maryland, (Union,) said the Court of Claims had decided that under the existing law they would take the jurisdiction of claims in all cases where officers of the army and navy have taken and used property without giving the owners certificates, and also where the claims grow out of the use or depredation of property in the Border States. He proposed an amendment authorizing the Quartermaster-General and the Commissary-General to take testimony, and if satisfied the property was destroyed by or applied to the use of the United States, to direct the Third Auditor to adjust and settle the accounts. He also proposed, if this should not be agreed to, to substitute a bill, reported from the Committee of Claims, proposing the appointment of commissioners and solicitors to investigate and report upon claims in the districts of Maryland, Pennsylvania, District of Columbia, West Virginia, Ohio Indiana, Illinois, Kansas, Tennessee and Kentucky.

Mr. Wilson, of Iowa, (Union,) caused to be read, a letter from Solicitor Whiting, in relation to the large number of cases which had been referred to him, and which he had declined to consider. Solicitor Whiting says that by far the larger portion of these claims are from disloyal States, for every variety of property, some of which has been condemned as proper objects of prize; and, what is singular, every claimant professes to be loyal, although some of them are known to the War Department as being actually engaged in the rebellion. Were they to regard the evidence presented as proof of loyalty, it is doubtful whether there ever was a disloyal person in the seceded States. With regard to the general character of the claims they are so gross and outrageous as to stamp them with fraud, the idea seeming to be entertained that it was fair game to rob the Treasury. In relation to the extent of the claims, hundreds of millions of dollars would be required to pay them. If these were now settled it would be impossible for the War Department to carry on the war for three months longer. As much danger was to be apprehended from the cormorants on the Treasury as from the armed rebels.

Solicitor Whiting says in conclusion: "We ought not to allow any court or tribunal to pass on these claims, however small the amount may be, and the Government should not now commit itself to acknowledge their validity."

Mr. Wilson, of Iowa, (Union,) acquiesced in the views above expressed by Solicitor Whiting, and referred to the character of a single claim from Fairfax County, Va., the woman presenting her petition to the Court of Claims, stating that of the $37,000 claimed $30,000 was for compensation for negroes that had run away. We should not now take jurisdiction of such a mass of claims, involving so much pecuniary outlay.

Mr. Thomas, of Maryland, replied, characterizing the letter of Solicitor Whiting as a "calumnious report." In relation to Maryland, he (Thomas) knew from observation that farms had been devastated by order of our military officers, and not one claim in twenty had been paid, or certificates given that they would be paid. He (Thomas) did not believe that the payment of honest claims would seriously embarrass our military operations.

Mr. Boutwell, of Massachusetts, (Union,) advocated the bill as it was reported, and expressed himself in favor of considering kindred matters separately.

Mr. Schenck, of Ohio, (Union,) offered an amendment, limiting the jurisdiction of the Court of Claims to cases where certificates have been given by military officers, and where the evidence is clear that the property taken was used or applied to the benefit of the Government.

The bill was further discussed by Messrs. Grider, Blair, Wilson and Whaley.

The House agreed to the amendment of Mr. Thomas, of Maryland, which provides that all claims for Quartermasters' stores may be submitted to the Quartermaster-General, and all claims for subsistence to the Commissary-General, accompanied by a proof, and it is made the duty of those officers to examine the claims, and if found correct they are to be referred to the Third Auditor of the Treasury for payment, which shall be final and conclusive. It also provides for the ascertainment of claims by the appointment of a commissioner and solicitor for each of the districts prescribed in the amendment. Care is to be taken to exclude disloyal citizens, and all claims not presented within three years, are to be excluded.

A message was received from the Senate that that body had disagreed to the House instructions to the latter's Committee of Conference on the Whisky Bill, and asked a free Committee of Conference. This was agreed to by the House.

Pending the question on the passage of the bill in relation to claims which had been under consideration nearly the entire session, the House at 5 o'clock adjourned.

ARMY OF THE POTOMAC

Success of Gen. Custer's Cavalry Movement.

Our Force Advances to Charlottesville.

Brilliant Cavalry Charge on a Rebel Camp.

Return of the Expedition Without Loss.

Rumors from General Kilpatrick's Column.

His Force Supposed to be in the Vicinity of Richmond.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Wednesday, March 2.

Gen. Custer started with a force of cavalry, on Sunday, to make a reconnoissance toward Gordonsville, the Sixth Corps, under Gen. Sedgwick, following in support. He passed through Madison Court-house on Monday morning, and reaching Wolfton, a few miles beyond, encountered a rebel picket, which he captured. Passing across the Rapidan and Ravanna rivers in the direction of Charlottesville, he met the enemy within three miles of the latter place, where he charged a body of cavalry under Gen. Stuart, driving them a considerable distance. Capt. Ash, of the Fifth United States Cavalry, (Regulars,) charged on a rebel camp near this place, with 60 men, drove the enemy, burned their tents, six caissons and two barges, and retreated without the loss of a man. This was one of the boldest fights our cavalry has made during the war.

Finding his small force opposed by infantry, Stuart's Cavalry and several batteries, which opened upon him, and that a number of trains had just arrived with troops to oppose his advance, he determined to return.

After crossing the Ravanna River, he burned the bridge, destroyed three flouring mills filled with grain, and fell back toward the Rapidan, but his battery horses giving out, he had to halt for the night. On nearing the Rapidan, the next morning he met a large body of rebel cavalry on the road to Burton's Ford, and skirmished with them for a time. He found the rebels had concentrated their force at this point, when he suddenly wheeled, and taking the road to Banks' Ford, crossed without opposition. The enemy followed some distance, but failed to inflict any damage.

Gen. Custer and his force returned to camp today with only tour men wounded slightly, and one rather badly. He captured and brought in about 50 prisoners, a large number of negroes, some 300 horses, and besides, destroyed a large quantity of valuable stores at Stannardsville. A number of rebels were wounded in the skirmish near the Rapidan.

REPORTS FROM WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, March 2.

A special dispatch to the Daily Chronicle, from Culpepper to-day, says: "Gen. Custar, with 1,500 picked men, in light marching order, left Culpepper Court-house about 2 o'clock on Sunday afternoon.

The Sixth and Third Corps marched from their Winter quarters earlier in the day; the former halted at Madison Court-house, and threw out a strong cordon of pickets, while the latter bivouacked in the neighborhood of James City, and held the line of the Robertson's road,

About 2 A. M. the raiders left their resting-place near James City, and took the road for Charlottesville. The men had been picked from Merritt's and Gregg's divisions, and were well mounted. When they marched up the steep banks of the Ravenna River, their crossing was unknown and altogether unexpected. Before us (the correspondent says) was a large cavalry camp, the huts arranged with mathematical precision and soldierly regularity. On ene side the horses were quietly standing; on the other side pieces of artillerd were parked with all the appurtenances neatly arranged and in close proximity to the caissons. The Fifth Regular Regiment of Gen. Merritt's old brigade, led the van, Capt. Ash, with one squadron, dashed among the comfortable looking huts with reckless precipitancy, and scattered the occupants in all directions. He ordered the men to destroy all they could, and they obeyed their instructions to the very letter—neither axes nor rat-tailed files could be found in his command. It was impossible to spike the guns, or chop the gun-carriages to pieces, so they contented themselves with blowing up the caissons and destroying the camp. In the meantime the enemy were rallying with the rapidity and zeal of Gael at the call of their chief. Several pieces of artillery were belching forth their destructive notes at audacious invaders, and the main body of Gen. Custar's command coming up, the enemy were driven a short distance to give us foothoold on the crest of the same hill with themselves between our troops and the town the enemy were gathering in great force, everything warned us to get away as soon as possible lest it might be our lot to get surrounded. They had telegraphed from Charlottsville to Orange Court-House that uninvited visitors were there, and aid was needed to expel them from the neighborhood. The answer to these dispatched came toward evening in shape of five car loads of infantry. There was nothing left us now but speedy retreat. Horses were wheeled about, and toward sunset the Ravenna was recrossed, and the bridge burned. All the mills that could be found in the neighborhood were destroyed. In returning, the advance was given to Col. Stedman, who commanded the brigade of 500 men, chosen from Gen. Gregg's division. The night was very dark, and the rain that continued to fall was mingled with sleet.

Gen. Custar, who followed with 1,000 men, who composed the remnant of his command, got lost in the thick gloom. For some time they attempted to blunder through a deep and muddy ravine, into which they had estrayed; but when they thought of the two pieces of artillery, all hope of getting through with them was given up. Stedman, with his 500 men, continued on their course, which, luckily for them, was correct; and about 4 o'clock Tuesday morning they reached our infantry pickets outside of Madison Court-house.

Gen. Custar, finding it impossible to proceed further, bivouacked that night in the woods. While he baited his horses and refreshed his men, Gen. Stuart, with 2,000 cavalrymen of Wickham's and Fitzhugh Lee's Brigades, was marching toward his rear. Next morning, about 9 o'clock, Gen. Custar marched on toward the right road having found it and marched upon it a short distance, when he discovered that Stuart, with his ragged but indefatigable followers, had succeeded in getting into his rear. As they neared Stanardsville, which is about 15 miles from the picturesque little villafie of Madison, the rebel cavalry were seen drawning in line across the road. This meant hostility. For some time the officers of our little command were at a loss what to do. The object of their wearisome and dangerous raid was to draw the rebel cavalry away from the Central Road to Richmond, but they had no intention of drawing them so far to their rear. All that bothered our troops was the section of Ransom's Battery, and that slightly impeded their progress. In general council it was proposed to throw these two Parrott guns into the nearest and deepest ditch; but Gen. Custar, protesting, declared he would fight his way through. He ordered a charge, which was led by him in person. The rebels stood their ground manfully, but our two guns now opened on them, and completed their discomfiture, that was fast causing their lines to waver.

They fled hastily, and our men pursued them hotly, but they reached another road which afforded us a chance for egress. Three rebels were killed in the charge and a considerable number wounded. Many prisoners fell into our hands, some of whom succeeded in making their escape.

Col. Stedman hearing the firing in the direction of Stannardsville, and knowing it must be Custar, started back with his baggage, horses and wearied men to the relief of the beleaguered party. They proceeded till the enemy was met, and Custar discovered to be safe, when they also returned, without damage.

This expedition was highly successful. The diversion created in favor of Gen. Kilpatrick could not have been greater.

The Third and Sixth Corps remained on the open ground exposed to all the inclemency of the weather. At one time Gen. Sedgwick was at a loss how to proceed.

No intelligence has been received from Gen. Custer. These troops had consumed their scanty store of supplies while clouds assumed a more gloomy aspect. At last everything was discovered to be progressing favorably, and the infantry are by this time on the homeward march.

GEN. KILPATRICK'S COLUMN.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday. March 2.

Nothing is officially known of the whereabouts of Gen. Kilpatrick. It is said in well-informed circles, that on Monday he was in Spottsylvania Court-house, which, according to the Gazette, is fifty-six miles from Richmond. An officer who arrived here to-night from the Army of Potomac, reports that when last heard from, he was within eighteen miles of Richmond. This, however, may be mere surmise, as there is no communication by which such a fact could be ascertained. Custer's movement was to deceive or draw off the attention of the enemy, while Kilpatrick journeyed in another direction.

He has certainly had sufficient time to reach Richmond if such was a part of the plan of operations.

THE LOUISIANA ELECTION.

THE FREE-STATE TICKET SUCCESSFUL.

Hon. Michael Hahn Chosen Governor by 3,000 Majority.

PORT HUDSON, Tuesday, Feb. 23,
Via CAIRO, Wednesday, March 2.

The election, yesterday, resulted in the triumph of the Straight Free State ticket, Hon. Michael Hahn being elected Governor by about 3,000 majority, out of a vote of over 8,000. There is great rejoicing by the Free State party. There were illuminations and cannon firing last night,

Louisiana is a free State!

THE SINKING OF THE HOUSATONIC.

The Torpedo Boat also Destroyed.

BALTIMORE, Wednesday, March 2.

Richmond papers have been received at the American Office, from which it appears that the torpedo boat which sunk the Housatonic must have been also lost.

The Charleston papers of the 27th speak of having only ascertained the cause of the sinking of the Housatonic from captured Yankees. They had previously supposed the vessel had sunk in a storm, and only learnt that the torpedo-boat had been successful ten days after the occurrence, which it will be remembered was on the 17th. The torpedo was commanded by Lieut. Dixon, of Mobile.

Affairs in Arkansas.

FORT SMITH, Ark., Wednesday, March 2.

Capt. Ross and twelve of his men, deserters from Gen. Price's army, have arrived at Van Buren. He brings no confirmation of the news that Price had left the rebel army.

Gen. Frost, of Camp Jackson notoriety, has gone to Mexico.

Union mass meetings are being held daily, and the vote at the coming election will be large. Nearly 3,000 voters have been already registered.

Little Rock has been abandoned. Farms are being rapidly leased, and the prospects for large crops are good.

Amusements.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—The opera of "Macbeth," although one of the best that Verdi has ever written, does not grow in favor with our public. We were astonished to find a thoroughly old-fashioned house last night—a house that left the manager comfortably in the lurch, with nothing to trouble his mind except a serious loss. The performance of the opera was in all respects admirable, as strangely enough it is apt to be on these otherwise melancholy occasions. Mme. Medori was in grand voice, and sang and acted with the greatest spirit. Signor Bellini was also in excellent trim, and Signor Lotti added very materially and agreeably to all the ensemble.

To-morrow (Friday) night, Donizetti's opera of "Lucrezia Borgia" will be played, with the usual fine distribution, and all the other artists in the small parts.

IRVING HALL.—Mr. Harrison's grand testimonial concert on Saturday night will be the best miscellaneous musical entertainment that has been given in the Metropolis for many years. The orchestral, choral and solo artists are of the first class, and the programme is admirable.

COMMENCEMENT OF BELLEVUE MEDICAL COLLEGE.—The exercises which are to take place this evening at the Academy of Music, promise to be of a most interesting nature. A large number of graduates will be sent forth, and the speeches by Mr. Draper, Dr. Chapin, and others, with the attractive programme of music, should insure a crowded house. The announcement will be found in another column.

WEDNESDAY, March 2—P. M.

The price of Gold to-day is about the same as yesterday. The sales early in the day were a fraction lower, but at 4 o'clock the rate is 160, as quoted last night. There is nothing new to report of Bills on London since the Boston steamer mail. The Export demand for Gold to-day is $147,000 for the Hecla for Liverpool, and the Customs demand $197,000. The rates for Money are 5@6 ⅌ cent. The Treasury Office is receiving about half a million a day on deposit at 5 ⅌ cent., besides disbursing a large amount of 5 ⅌ cent. Legal Tender in place of Greenback Currency. The holders of warrants and checks on the office have the option of taking either in payment. The National Bank Circulation, without reference to the point of issue, is at par at the Treasury in exchange for Greenbacks, or on deposit at 5 ⅌ cent. The notion that the old City Banks mean to discredit this Circulation is simply a ridiculous affectation. Some of their officers may possibly have the will, but all of them combined have not the power to influence, by their action, a discount of one-tenth of one ⅌ cent. on any National Bank bearing the countersign of the United States Treasury, whether issued in Iowa or Maine.

The Government Stocks are firm to-day, and the 5-20 year 6 ⅌ cent. Bonds and Certificates are likely to further improve on the authentic announcement that the next loan will bear only 5 ⅌ cent. interest, 10-40 years to run, and to be taken up by Popular Subscription at par. The new Stock will date in its half-yearly interest payments March and September. There is little question that the subscriptions to it will go ahead of the current wants of the Treasury for the Money. The Gold Interest makes the rate of income equal at present to eight per cent. per annum, or 7½ ⅌ cent. with Gold at 150, or 6 ⅌ cent. with Gold at 120.

The Railway speculation is steadier this afternoon than at the close of business yesterday. The intermediate sales of Erie, however, have been as low as 112½ and as high as 114¼ ⅌ cent. The most damaging rumors of yesterday have been dissipated to-day, and the whole mystery of the raid upon the Stock by a leading Director and speculator is resolved into his right and ability to create new shares out of his holdings of the Fourth and Fifth Mortgages, which no one questioned before the wild rumors referred to were set afloat. Of this right he is said to have availed himself to-day to the extent of 5,000 shares, or $500,000. He is also said to hold an equal or larger amount in reserve, and perhaps a small portion of the Long Dock mortgage, the conversion of which is permitted by the Company. The other Railways were higher, on Harlem and Rock Island, and a fraction lower than yesterday on Illinois Central and Michigan Central. The Southern Michigan and Cleveland and Toledo shares are steady. Hudson River lower. The Miscellaneous shares varied 1@1½ ⅌ cent. through the day on Quicksilver, and were lower on Canton. The Dividend on the Hudson River Shares, announced this morning, is five ⅌ cent. in cash.

At 4 o'clock the following prices were made in comparison with Tuesday night. Reading lost the advance of yesterday. Pittsburgh weaker:

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE SANITARY COMMISSION.

TESTIMONY OF HON. N. S. TOWNSHEND AS TO THE SANITARY COMMISSION.

The following letter is from the pen of Lieut.-Col. N. S. TOWNSHEND, one of the Medical Inspectors of the United States Army, among whose duties the detection of abuses as to the food and clothing of the troops holds a prominent place. His testimony as to the judicious methods of the United States Sanitary Commission in the distribution of hospital stores will have great weight with those who know the opportunities for accurate knowledge these official inspectors possess.

From the Cleveland Herald.

AVON, Feb. 22, 1864.

EDS. HERALD: The accompanying letter is a copy of one from my husband, not written for publication, but to aid me in labors to increase the interest and confidence of our own neighborhood and town in the Sanitary Commission.

It occurred to me, however, that, if published, it might promote the interest of the commission outside of these, and particularly of the Fair, and, with the wish that it may do all the good it can, it is sent to the Herald.

Yours, &c.,
MRS. N. S. TOWNSHEND.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Feb. 8, 1864.

MY DEAR WIFE: Your letter of the 1st inst., referring to the United States Sanitary Commission, was received to-day, and I reply immediately, that you may have my testimony to use whenever it will encourage those whose hearts and hands are already in the work, or answer the objections of those who have listened to adverse reports.

And let me remind you at the outset, that my opportunities for observing are not simply those of a common soldier or line officer of equal rank, or army Surgeons even, but much better; for, as Medical Inspector, I have wider range than either of them, and nothing else to do but look after what affects the health and comfort of the men, including, of course, food, clothing, shelter, surgical and medical treatment and nursing. I have seen not less than twenty-five thousand sick and wounded men in hospitals, and have, therefore, many opportunities of judging of the doings of the Sanitary Commission, and now I will give you some of the conclusions at which I have arrived:

First—I think it is far the best medium through which to send material comforts to the sick of the army, and greatly preferable to State and local agencies. The Sanitary Commission is unitary and simple, embraces the whole field, and therefore overlooks nothing and duplicates nothing. Where would a State agent find his troops? In perhaps twenty different army corps in every rebel State. A local agent, who cannot see the whole field, and don't know what has been sent here or there, cannot know where succor is most needed, and he lacks the facilities of communication and transportation.

Second—The agents of the Commission are not paid out of funds which you in Ohio contributed, nor do they consume the eatables which Aid Societies have sent. The salaried agents are paid from a California fund devoted to that purpose. I have often taken meals with the agents of the Commission at their stations, and have invariably had set before me only what the market afforded, or the agent's personal resources could supply.

Third—I have no evidence that line officers ever use Sanitary stores, for they are never put under their charge, nor can they obtain possession of them by purchase or otherwise.

Sanitary stores designed for distribution among the sick of a hospital, are put under the control of the surgeon in charge.

That stores while in charge of the surgeon may in some instances have been misapplied, or used, or stolen, is possible as of the stores belonging to the Government, but that the surgeon in charge of any hospital has shared in or connived at any such misapplication, I have never heard charged by any person who had the means of knowing.

Two months since I visited, without notice, the best hospital in Knoxville. Soon after I arrived the surgeon's dinner-bell rang. I was invited to dinner. On the table was a clean table-cloth, and clean plates, and knives and forks, and pork and bran bread, and nothing else. The bread had not sufficient flour in it to hold it together; its cohesion seemed to depend on a little molasses used in the manufacture. I was helped bountifully. We all ate heartily, and no apologies were offered. On examining afterwards the food of several of the patients, I found them using good bread and crackers, and on inquiry learned there was not then (a few days after LONGSTREET left) enough flour or army bread for all, and therefore the surgeons, the nurses, and the patients whose diseases would permit, used the bran bread, while the fine flour bread was reserved for those who had affections of the bowels. Other patients I found using garden vegetables of various kinds, and I learned that the supply being very short these were reserved for cases inclining to scurvy and other cases specially needing them, the surgeons, the nurses and patients who had nearly recovered could not indulge in such luxuries. Do you think that such medical officers would rob the sick soldier of a few delicacies that might be sent by his friends? A few days later I had the satisfaction of seeing two hundred and fifty packages of Sanitary stores in addition to Government supplies sent from Chattanooga to the hospitals at Knoxville, and I have no fears that the doctors ate them up.

But why is it that returned soldiers do not more frequently express their gratitude for the comforts sent them? Because in most instances Sanitary stores are not distributed to the men directly by the agent, but indirectly through the surgeon in charge, and this is the only safe rule. Thousands of men in hospitals are wearing socks, drawers, shirts, and lying on beds, fed with food, and have their wounds bound up with bandages, all from the Sanitary Commission without a suspicion of the fact. The Sanitary agent tells the surgeon what he has—the surgeon tells the agent what he wants, and it is put at his disposal to be given out as required. The Sanitary agent, in his frequent visits to the hospitals, sees that his contributions are properly used, while the recipient himself may not know, or may not be in a condition to know, whether what he eats and drinks and wears comes from Uncle Sam himself, or some dear aunt or pretty cousin.

But, at the same time, scores of shirking loafers who are not sick, but pretend to a lame back, or a weak stomach, or fainting spells, are constantly endeavoring to sponge something out of Sanitary agents, and if they fail, as they usually do—for these cowardly, grunting malingerers are easily recognized—they go away prepared to tell stories about the misapplication of Sanitary stores.

In sort, I am satisfied that the Sanitary Commission is a well-organized and well-managed institution, and that it is the best possible agent for the distribution of what home-fingers can prepare for the soldier.

I think, also, that for the coming Spring campaign we shall need all that can be raised, and I don't believe we shall need anything afterward.

As ever, yours,
N. S. TOWNSHEND.

From the Colorado Commonwealth.

THE SANITARY COMMISSION DROPS DOWN.

A disabled Wisconsin soldier, whose name this moment escapes us, has written a book about the war. Two or three weeks ago we clipped from a newspaper the following, taken from its pages:

"I have not had time to finish my article, commenced weeks ago, which was to write down the United States Sanitary Commission, and I am glad of it, for here again we have been made to feel that the Commission is a power for good. Whilst the officials have been wrangling over the question as to how the hospital stores of the army got lost in the move from the Potomac to the Peninsula, and whilst the soldiers have been suffering for want of them, this Commission has been actively devising means to supply the much needed articles, and behold! right in the midst of the battle today, whilst Generals were inquiring of surgeons: 'Have you the necessary comforts for the wounded?'—and whilst surgeons were anxiously inquiring what they were to do in the absence of them, this commission drops down amongst us—from somewhere—their wagons are unloaded, and the wounded made comfortable. That 'writing down' article will not spoil by a little more keeping."

A thousand years from now, the United States Sanitary Commission will be spoken of. It has reared up for itself a monument in the hearts of the people, more enduring than the marble or bronze. The Sanitary Commission drops down on every battle-field.

Shall not Colorado drop down on the Sanitary Commission in the shape of a few nuggets?

NEXT OF KIN.—IF BENJAMIN, RICHARD, Priscilla and Jane, children of Jeremiah Meanley, late of Liverpool, gentleman, deceased, or their representatives, will apply to THOMAS STATHAM, of Brown Lodge, near Rochdale, Lancashire, England, they will hear of something to their advantage. Priscilla is supposed to have married a seafaring man named Mawson, or Morson, to be still living, and to have resided at or near to an inn called the "Blackboy Inn," London. Jane married a traveling showman, named Parish, and died in his lifetime, leaving one child, (Edward,) who is still living. She and her husband are buried at Oldham. Benjamin left this country upward of 30 years ago, and information was afterward received of his being in America. Richard went to sea about 1817, and about the year 1839 information was received of his being in America and following the occupation of a hawker.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT.

OFFICE LIGHTHOUSE BOARD, Feb. 15, 1864.

Sealed Proposals will be received at this office until 1 o'clock P. M. on Saturday, the 19th day of March, 1864, for supplying the Lighthouse Establishment with fifteen thousand gallons of the best quality pure Winter strained lard oil, and thirty thousand gallons of the best quality pure Winter strained sperm oil, to be divided into four lots, and to be delivered at the times undermentioned, alongside of the Government supply-vessels, or at the warehouse or other place of deposit, to be designated by the Inspecting Officer or other authorized agent of the Lighthouse Board, in strong, tight, well-made casks, suitable for shipping, in good order, of an average capacity each of from eighty to one hundred gallons.

The lard oil will be delivered at Boston, Mass., for special inspection.

Any one of the lots of sperm oil, or all of them, may be delivered at New-York, New-London, Sag Harbor, Boston, New-Bedford, Edgartown, or Nantucket, at the option of the bidders. The place of delivery must be distinctly stated in the bids, and will be embraced in the contracts.

The four lots will be delivered as follows, viz.:

LOT No. 1.—Ten thousand (10,000) gallons sperm oil on the 15th day of April, 1864, or as soon thereafter as the proper tests and gauging can be completed.

LOT No. 2.—Fifteen thousand (15,000) gallons lard oil on the 1st day of May, 1864, or as soon thereafter as the proper tests and gauging can be completed.

LOT No. 3.—Ten thousand (10,000) gallons sperm oil on the 1st day of June, 1864, or as soon thereafter as the proper tests and gauging can be completed.

LOT No. 4.—Ten thousand (10,000) gallons sperm oil on the 1st day of August, 1864, or as soon thereafter as the proper tests and gauging can be completed.

No part of the oil proposed for and to be embraced in the contracts under this advertisement will be accepted, received, or paid for, until it shall have been proved to the entire satisfaction of the person or persons charged with its examination, test, and inspection, to be of the best quality pure Winter strained or bagged oil, and free from mixture with other or inferior oils and adulterations.

The usual means for determining the character and quality of the oil will be employed, viz.: specific gravity, burning the amount of residuum, and any other proper tests to arrive at correct conclusions that may be deemed necessary.

The casks must be gauged, under the direction and personal supervision of the inspecting officer, by a Custom-house or other legally authorized and sworn gauger, according to the United States standard, and must be marked and accepted before they are removed from the cellar or warehouse of the contractor. The temperature of the oil will be accurately noted, and the measurements reduced to the standard temperature of 60° Fahrenheit by tables prepared for the purpose.

Proposals will be received and considered for each lot separately, or for all of the lots, at the option of the bidder; but no bid will be considered for a less quantity than that specified as one lot, to be delivered at one time and place. Each bid must state explicitly the rate per gallon, in writing, the number of the lot or lots bid for, and the time and place of delivery, conforming to this advertisement.

Bids submitted by different members of the same firm or copartnership will not be considered.

The Lighthouse Board, under the authority of the department, reserves the right to reject any bid, although it may be the lowest, for other considerations than the price.

No bid will be considered for any other kinds or descriptions of oils than those specifically called for in this advertisement.

A bond, with security to the satisfaction of the department, in a penalty equal to one-fourth of the amount of each contract made under these proposals, will be required of each contractor, conditioned for the faithful performance of the contract, to be executed within ten days after the acceptance of the bid.

Every offer must be accompanied by a written guarantee, signed by one or more responsible persons, and known to the department as such, or certified by a United States District Judge, Attorney, Navy Agent, or Collector of the Customs, to the effect that, if the bid or bids be accepted, the bidder or bidders will duly execute a contract in good faith, according to the provisions and terms of this advertisement, within ten days after acceptance; and that, in case the said party or parties offering shall fail to enter into the contract as aforesaid, he or they guaranty to make good the difference between the offer of the said party or parties and the next lowest bidder. All bids must be sealed and indorsed "Proposals for oil for lighthouses," and then placed in another envelope, and directed, prepaid, to the Secretary of the Lighthouse Board, Washington City.

All bids will be opened publicly, at the hour and on the day specified.

Payments will be made for the several lots of oil within thirty days after they shall have been received by the United States.

By order of the Lighthouse Board.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

By last night's mails we received files of Richmond papers up to Feb. 29, inclusive. They contain the usual variety of interesting intelligence. From the multitude of dispatches, statements and guesses concerning Gen. SHERMAN's movements in Mississippi, we gather that he withdrew from Meridian about the 22d, and is now on his way back to Vicksburgh. A dispatch to the rebel War Department announces this officially, and it is confirmed from several other sources, though there are reports equally as late, placing him thirty miles east of Meridian, and Gen. POLK on the east side of the Tombigbee, at Demopolis, waiting to give SHERMAN battle, should he cross. These, however, may not be reliable. The rebel press view GRANT's operations at Tunnel Hill with alarm, and construe SHERMAN's movement as a feint to draw troops from JOHNSTON. The Governor of Florida announces the rebel victory at Olustee, and says that Gen. FINNEGAN would pursue our forces to Jacksonville. The rebels had already advanced to Baldwin. LONGSTREET has made a serious retrograde movement, which is differently explained by the rebel papers, some asserting that it was to avoid a flank movement, others that he could no longer subsist his army there. Gen. BRAGG's appointment as virtual Commander-in-Chief is received by the Richmond Examiner with sarcasm and ridicule, while the Enquirer approves it, affecting to believe that, after all, he is not Commander-in-Chief, but only an advisory officer. On the whole, the tone of the rebel press is less gloomy, as they extract comfort from the late Union repulse in Florida and the withdrawal of SHERMAN, though there is a pang of grief manifest at every bushel of corn or pound of pork that our forces capture, consume or destroy as they move through rebeldom.

A dispatch from the headquarters of the Army of the Potomac announces the return of the cavalry expedition of Gen. CUSTER, which was sent out on Sunday to make a demonstration on the enemy's left, to draw attention from KILPATRICK's real movement on the rebel right. CUSTER's force penetrated with great success to within three miles of Charlottesville, which is below Gordonsville, and entirely to the rear of LEE's position. This was accomplished by making a detour via Madison Court-house and Stannardsville. A strong cavalry force, under STUART, was successfully charged and dispersed, and a rebel cavalry camp brilliantly charged and then destroyed by Capt. ASH and sixty men. Finding the rebels were concentrating infantry forces to cut him off on his return, he changed his course, and skillfully avoided them, and came back to camp with 50 prisoners and 300 horses, having lost but five men wounded in the whole expedition—only one of them seriously. From Gen. KILPATRICK'S column there is nothing positive. It is believed that he was at Spottsylvania Court-house on Monday, and that he has since been heard from within eighteen miles of Richmond. But the reports need confirmation. The present operations of the Army of the Potomac are exclusively by the cavalry, and from KILPATRICK'S column may be expected the most important news.

The Washington Republican states that a letter regarding the Florida reverse, from Major JOHN HAY, has been received, from which it appears that our total loss in killed and wounded was 800 instead of 1,200. Gen. SEYMOUR acted contrary to orders, or at least, without orders, in pushing his advance so far, and upon him the responsibility for the disaster mainly rests.

A dispatch dated Port Hudson, La., Feb. 23, received via Cairo, says that at the general election in Louisiana, on the 22d ult., the Free State ticket was completely successful—Hon. MICHAEL HAHN being chosen Governor by a majority of 3,000.

FROM EUROPE.

The Damascus at Portland, and the Etna a this port, bring two days later advices from Europe. The news, however, is not particularly important. The war in the Duchies exhibits no new feature. The Prussians and Austrians were devoting all their energies to drive the Danes, said to be 40,000 strong, from their lines of defence at Duppel. A thaw, however, had set in, materially retarding the aggressive operations by making it difficult to move artillery. Copenhagen papers say that the Danish Government have received no propositions for an armistice, and any such proposals stipulating for the evacuation of Schleswig would be inadmissible. Danish ships were cruising in search of shipping belonging to any of the German Powers, and a strong fleet was reported to have arrived off the Island of Alsen to attack the invading Prussian transports. From Great Britain we learn that the Great Eastern was sold at auction to a company formed for purchasing her. It was rumored that Government intended to withdraw the subsidy to the Galway steamship line. It was stated in Paris that the arrangements for the departure of the Archduke MAXIMILIAN for Mexico were complete. In the Italian Chamber of Deputies, the condition of the natives of that country who had been fighting for the Union and been captured by the rebeels, was under consideration. The Minister of Foreign Affairs said that he should employ all the means in his power to obtain their liberties.

CONGRESS.

In the Senate yesterday, the bill to encourage foreign emigration was taken up and passed. Mr. GRIMES introduced a bill to amend the Act of July, 1862, to establish and equalize the grade of line officers in the navy. Mr. WADE introduced a bill making appropriations to finish certain uncompleted public works. Mr. WILKINSON rose to a personal explanation, and referred to a recent speech of Gov. ANDREW, of Massachusetts, criticising a speech of his (WILKINSON'S) in reference to the comparative merits of Eastern and Western armies. Mr. WILKINSON spoke at length, praising the gallantry of the soldiers of the Army of the Potomac, and imputing the want of success to the mismanagement of its leaders. The discussion was participated in by Messrs. JOHNSON, ANTHONY, WADE and WILSON, and took a wide range, including the merits of all the Commanders of the Army of the Potomac. A resolution was adopted, inquiring under whose orders the late movement in Florida was made. The whisky tax came up in its usual turn, and the Senate refused to agree to the House request for instructions to fix the tax at 20 or 40 cents on stocks on hand, but finally concluded to submit the whole subject to a free Committee of Conference, and the Senate adjourned.

The House passed the bill to protect overland emigration. Mr. JULIAN introduced a bill to develop the mineral resources of the public domain. The bill declaring that the jurisdiction of the Court of Claims shall not extend to war losses was taken up, and Messrs. Thomas, Wilson, Boutwell, Schenck and Blair discussed it at length. A letter from Solicitor WHITING was read, alluding to the fraudulent nature of many of the claims for war losses. The House agreed to an amendment that all claims for quartermaster's or subsistence stores shall be referred respectively to the Quartermaster and Commissary-Generals, and if correct, then to the Third Auditor of the Treasury Department for final settlement. The House agreed to the Senate's request for a free Committee of Conference on the Revenue Bill.

STATE LEGISLATURE.

In the Senate, yesterday, a variety of bills were under consideration, and among those noticed was one for the more effectual punishment of drunkenness and vagrancy in New-York; also, to amend the act establishing the Board of Emigrant Commissioners; to establish an asylum for inebriates in New-York; to amend the act creating a Department of Public Charities and Corrections in New-York; relative to statistical records in New-York. Bills were passed incorporating the Staten Island Savings Bank; relative to the enforcement of judgment liens against real estate: incorporating the Richmond County Fire Department; two remonstrances against the riot act were presented, and a petition for another railroad in the City.

In the Assembly, among the bills noticed was one incorporating the Grand Hotel Company in New-York; also, relative to prostitution, and compelling Ferry Companies to report annually to the Legislature. The bill regulating funeral processions between New-York and Long Island was passed. Bills were introduced altering the map of New-York; incorporating the East India Telegraph Company; concerning the Erie Railroad; requiring the Third-av. Railroad to extend their track; incorporating the New-York Public Stock Exchange.

GENERAL NEWS.

The Board of Supervisors have allowed "The Association for the Benefit of Colored Orphans" the sum of $73,089 26 for the loss of their buildings, comprising the well-known Institution of the Colored Orphan Asylum, which will ever figure in history as having been heartlessly destroyed by the mob on the first day of riot rule in this City last July. The amount claimed by the association was $73,094 26. This is exclusive of a claim for loss of furniture, &c., yet to be acted upon. The difference between the amount claimed and the amount allowed is just $5. Why this difference is made does not appear in the report submitted by the Special Committee who investigated the claim, but the fact itself indicates very close scrutiny and discrimination on their part. ANN and GEORGE GREER, on a claim of $43,231 87 for buildings destroyed, have been allowed only $34,500; and among other items recently allowed are two of $13,053 and $10,000, respectively to L. HERSHBERGER and LOUIS LEVY, for loss of stock in stores.

The steamship Eagle, from Havana on the 27th ult., brings advices from Mexico to the 15th, and from Vera Cruz to the 20th. No military movements of importance had taken place. Zacatecas, which the previous news stated was on the point of being occupied by the French, was still in possession of the Juarists. JUAREZ was at Saltillo on the 9th ult., where he was honored with a public reception. On the night of the 19th a large fire occurred at Vera Cruz, and a large quantity of French quartermaster and commissary supplies were destroyed. The people of Vera Cruz had celebrated a second time the acceptance by MAXMILIAN of the throne of the Mexican empire.

Our correspondence from Havana furnishes nothing of interest respecting affairs in Santo Domingo, excepting a few details of the taking of the towns of Neiba and Barahona. The former was deserted and the latter was reduced to ashes. This was accomplished more by two men-of-war than by the Spanish troops. Three field pieces, one rifled, are reported to have been captured, and also a schooner. The English steamer Kestrel arrived on the 23d with sick—number not given—at Santiago de Cuba. The steamer Europa has again been sent with men and food. The United States steamer De Soto is in port waiting to be docked.

Breadstuffs and Provisions were less active yesterday, though buyers had any existing advantage. A moderate business was reported in Whisky, Tallow, Oils, Fish, Tobacco and Groceries. Cotton was dull and heavy. The freight market was quiet, with 432 vessels of all classes in port.

The price of Gold was comparatively steady yesterday. Government Stocks firm. The Railway speculation left off irregular in prices as compared with Tuesday, but higher on some descriptions, like Harlem and Rock Island. Erie sold as low as 112½, and as high as 114½ ℔ cent.

THE GROWTH OF BROTHERLY LOVE.—The Tribune is quite inclined to be facetious over an alleged similarity, not to say identity, of sentiment and expression between an article in the TIMES and one in the Herald, of recent dates, concerning the English attacks on our iron-clads. With every possible disposition to laugh with those who laugh, and especially to encourage the rare and rather grim jocosity of our neighbor, we really see nothing very laughable in this little incident. It is very natural, certainly, that clear-headed writers on scientific subjects, which they thoroughly understand, should take the same views of them, especially when a common and ardent patriotism fills equally their ingenuous breasts, and it is not very strange, we are confident, to find them clothing their opinions in similar forms of expression. There is always one form of language which is the very best for the utterance of ideas; and it is quite natural that the very best writers should adopt that form.

Besides, it is just subject for calm and sober rejoicing, and not for frivolous and empty mirth, to see the Herald, or any other man, adopting the opinions, and even using the language of the TIMES in its discussions of public affairs. We are not learned in astrology as the Tribune is, and cannot therefore judge whether the incident does really portend the astounding events which that paper catalogues or not. But it may portend something even more surprising than any of them. It may indicate a coming revolution in the newspaper world, which is, of course, the only world worthy the attention of an intelligent mind. Who knows but that editors, in the era which this little accident may usher in, may think more of their general agreements than of their little differences—and value higher their self-respect than their petty spites? It is even within the bounds of possibility that the Tribune may fall into the habit, even if it does not see the wisdom, of being a little less dogmatic and a little more tolerant, and of being content to do its own business in its own way, without seeking quite so eagerly to manage the affairs of other people. Some fine morning, after the millenium shall have fairly dawned, the race of skeptics in journalistic virtue may be surprised to find the same identity between a leader in the TIMES and one in the Tribune, which our sharp-eyed neighbor now detects between ourselves and the Herald. We would not be too sanguine, but if that day ever does arrive we shall be ready to congratulate the Tribune readers and the rest of mankind on the happy change.

The British Debate on Maritime Law.

The debate in the English House of Commons in reference to the doings of our navy and our Prize Courts, was one of great interest to us. It covered a great deal of ground. Mr. FITZGERALD began it by moving for the papers in relation to the cases of four vessels—the Springbok, the Science, the Margaret & Jessie, and the Saxon. The Margaret & Jessie was a rebel steamer chased by one of our vessels, as was claimed, within British waters, and fired on there; and the Attorney-General silenced this inquiry at once by saying that there was a controversy as to the facts of the case, which our Government was investigating. The other vessels were English vessels captured by our cruisers, but were separate cases, involving different questions, although all lumped in one inquiry.

Mr. FITZGERALD prefaces his remarks about the Springbok with the declaration that "the first course adopted by the American Government in order to put down the trade that had grown up between certain British and neutral ports and the Confederate States, was to capture every vessel they could catch, on the plea that she was about to break the blockade, though really she was bound to a neutral port." We need no answer to this sweeping charge but to point to the records of our Prize Courts. The very rarity of the cases in which prizes have been ordered to be restored is sufficient refutation of any charge against our Government of having authorized, or against our navy of having carried out any such system of indiscriminate capture.

The article from the Memorial Diplomatique, about this case, which we dissected a few weeks ago, was too violent an attack upon our Courts not to be called in as an auxiliary, and Mr. FITZGERALD paraded its "three violations of international law" before the House of Commons, giving them additional weight, by alleging that the writer "stated the views of the Government of France." He did not propose, he said, "to enter into a discussion of the merits of the decision," but he wanted the British Government "to state their opinion that these doctrines are contrary to international law," and he wanted to know what they had done with reference to this decision.

The Attorney-General exploded this part of the attack very speedily. He reminded the House that they should be very cautious in listening to French criticism upon prize law, because their views of it were entirely different from the established views of England. He thought it probable that the French writer in question had not seen the decision of the court when he wrote, and he——"would not hesitate to repeat in that House what he had stated elsewhere, that although, in the judgments of the United States Prize Courts, there were passages open to criticism, and although he was very far from saying that they had always applied the principles of law to the facts of their cases, yet he was not aware that one single decision had been pronounced during this war in their Prize Courts which did not bear upon the face of it signs of an honest intent to administer the law properly. [Hear, hear.] This case of the Springbok was no exception to the rule. On all the three points to which his honorable and learned friend had referred, the decision was based on principles which, right or wrong, were principles of our own Prize Courts, established in the time of our war with France."

He then briefly exposed some of the errors of the French writer as to the decision—errors which we have fully pointed out to our readers. He did not agree with the conclusion of our court as to the facts of the case, and that is not wonderful. But, as he said, that is a question for the higher court on appeal.

The discussion on this point was continued by Mr. G. BENTINCK, who, still unsatisfied, criticised with some severity Judge BETTS' opinion, citing an opinion of Lord CRANWORTH, "that a neutral vessel carrying contraband of war could not legally be stopped on her way to a neutral port, whatever may be her subsequent destination." We have not the opinion to which the speaker referred, and the pretended quotations from the decision of our own court in the article in the Memorial Diplomatique, have made us cautious in taking such statements at secondhand. But we do not believe Lord CRANWORTH said that a vessel could not be "stopped" under such circumstances. The right of stoppage and search is too well settled to have any Judge lay down such a rule at this day. Probably his statement was that a neutral vessel, under those circumstances, could not be condemned; and there is nothing in the case of the Springbok contrary to that decision. Judge BETTS expressly says that "the carrying of contraband articles is now attended only with loss of freight and expenses, unless the vessel belongs to the owner of the contraband articles, or unless there are circumstances of fraud as to the papers and the destination of the vessel or the cargo."

This matter of fraud Lord CRANWORTH does not seem to have alluded to, nor did Mr. BENTINCK touch upon it, although it is the material point in the case, but he attacked the decision on minor grounds. He differed with the court as to the conclusion which it drew from the fact that the Springbok did not carry full and clear invoices, because he was told that it was not usual to send invoices by the vessel herself. But Mr. BENTINCK may find on examination that the court was sustained by ample authority in holding that the absence of invoices from a vessel in time of war is always a suspicious circumstance.

Mr. BENTINCK evidently did not share in the confidence which was expressed in the decisions of our courts. "It should be remembered," he said, "that the Federal Judges were not like the English Judges; although many of them were high-minded men, and in some cases learned men, yet they went out with the Government. They might have a bias, therefore, to the prejudice of British subjects." If we could get a quiet word with Mr. BENTINCK, we would suggest to him that he ought to be a little better informed than this. One of the English correspondents wrote from this City that the decisions of our prize courts were of no account, because the Judges were small attorneys elected by the people. We were not so much surprised at this confounding of the District Courts of the City of New-York with the District Courts of the United States, though the idea was rather ludicrous of one of those petty justice courts exercising admiralty and maritime jurisdiction, and deciding questions of international law upon which the peace of nations might hang, because the distinctions between Federal and State authority, the difference between New-York and the United States, seem incomprehensible to the generality of Englishmen. That blunder, however, was the blunder of a penny-a-liner. But for one of the legislators of England—one, too, who had taken upon himself to attack the Attorney-General as having given the case but a cursory reading, to make the blunder of supposing that our Judges were removed from office with every change of Administration, as well as Postmasters and Custom-house officers, is rather remarkable, and we should think somewhat mortifying.

The discussion of the case of the Science involved no new points, but that of the Saxon did. We must postpone their consideration for the present, for they are important and interesting enough to be taken up by themselves.

GOVERNMENT ADVERTISING.—A paragraph in one of our amiable cotemporaries makes it proper for us to acknowledge the receipt of sundry orders for the insertion of advertisements from the several departments at Washington, as well as from the Custom-house in this City—and to explain why it is that no more of them appear in our columns. It seems that under some law of Congress the Government is required to pay a uniform rate for its advertising, without regard to the circulation, standing or character of the newspapers through which it is done—and that rate is about one-fourth of our regular charges. We have, therefore, uniformly declined all Government advertising sent to us on these terms. We have a uniform rate for the insertion of advertisements, which merchants, business men and other private persons who seek the use of our columns for their own interest are required to pay; and we certainly see no reason why we should do the same work and render the same service to the Government for a fourth of the price. This whole matter of Government advertising needs revision. It may be well enough to take precautions against paying excessive charges to newspapers that have only a nominal existence; but Government cannot expect to enjoy the publicity of the leading metropolitan journals at the paltry price which it is now allowed to pay.

GEN. McCLELLAN'S REPORT.

Analysis and Review of Gen. McClellan's History of His Military Career.

[THIRD ARTICLE.]

Baseless though we have found such of Gen. McCLELLAN'S excuses for his inactivity as we have thus far had occasion to subject to analysis, it cannot be denied that they belong to an order of facts that are grave, weighty and deserving of full consideration; and, if well grounded, they would go far to justify that delay. Were it true that the army put into the hands of Gen. McCLELLAN, instead of being twice or thrice the strength of the rebel force on the Potomac, as we have shown, was in reality doubly outnumbered by an enemy "not less than 150,000 strong, well drilled and equipped, ably commanded and strongly intrenched;" were it true that the roads of Virginia during the Fall of 1861, instead of being unprecedentedly good, as we have proved by the testimony of a cloud of witnesses, were really "unprecedentedly" bad, as he claims—the facts might well give us pause before passing censure on an inactivity which, however deplorable, would still have had much to warrant it. But the one excuse is as groundless as the other: both have been swept away by a scrutiny of facts; and we now proceed to show that the only remaining excuse he offers is equally without foundation.

There is one characteristic of Gen. McCLELLAN which displays itself so persistently, both in his report and in his conduct, that it must belong to the very structure of his intellect. What we mean is a certain inequality of vision which puts facts out of all just relations, gives him one standard of judgment for himself and another for others, and leads him to a prodigious over-estimate of immediate, and a prodigious under-estimate of remote, difficulties. We have throughout his report constantly such reasoning as this: "To be sure the roads here are very bad; but down on the Rappahannock, down on the Peninsula, they are excellent." "I can't advance a foot here; but why does not Buell in Kentucky push on to Knoxville," etc., etc. It was nothing to him that there was every a priori probability that the roads were quite as bad on the Rappahannock or the Peninsula as in front of Washington; that every old army officer knew very well that our Winter roads present "very much of a muchness" from the Potomac to the Rio Grande—and the event showed Gen. McCLELLAN that he went to the Peninsula only to find worse roads—it was equally trivial to him that BUELL, when desired to make a march of three hundred miles on Knoxville, labored under the same natural difficulties as himself, and was hampered by the additional embarrassment of having neither transportation nor artillery, everything having been given to furnish out the Army of the Potomac;—we say all such considerations appear to have been completely overslaughed in the mind of a General who seems constitutionally incapable of looking at any series of facts in the "dry light" of reason, but sees everything through the refracted medium of his own illusions and delusions. "The first qualification in a General," says NAPOLEON, "is a cool head—that is, a head which receives just impressions, and estimates things and objects at their real value. Some men are so constituted as to see everything through a highly-colored medium. Whatever knowledge, or talent, or courage, or other good qualities such men may possess, nature has not formed them for the command of armies, or the direction of great military operations." This key will aid us in the interpretation of that extraordinary tendency to exaggerate the force of the enemy which is so constant with him. It is astonishing the tricks which the fears and the fancies of a man thus unhappily organized will play him; and we are willing to believe that Gen. McCLELLAN was quite as much deceived as deceiving. It is possible Gen. McCLELLAN really believed the rebels had 150,000 men on the Potomac, when they never had a third of that number, just as it is possible he believed they had one hundred thousand, then two hundred thousand, then two hundred and fifty thousand men on the Peninsula, when the truth was they never had over 70,000—or as he believed they invaded Maryland with a hundred and fifty thousand men, when their total force was fifty-five thousand. All this, we say, is possible; but alas for the hapless nation whose fate was committed to the keeping of such a leader!

Precisely the same tendency characterizes Gen. McCLELLAN's estimate of the comparative condition as of the comparative strength of his own and the enemy's army. His communications of the period referred to make frequent mention of the superior discipline, drill and equipment of the rebels, and the inferiority in these respects of his own force. Even as late as Feb. 3, 1862, in a letter to the Secretary of War, he writes:

> "Many weeks, I may say many months ago, this Army of the Potomac was fully in condition to repel any attack; but there is a vast difference between that and the efficiency required to enable troops to attack successfully an army elated by victory and intrenched in a position long since selected, studied and fortified."

Now, it is difficult to conjecture on what basis Gen. McCLELLAN constantly makes this assertion of the superior fighting powers of the rebels, unless—with a credulity insulting to the manhood of the loyal States—the rebel rhodomontade on this head had been swallowed entire by him. Abstractly considered, they ought to have been not better soldiers, but worse; for, though their habits of life and social training had been of a kind to make them ultimately very excellent soldiers, they were calculated to make them very inferior soldiers at the outset. And this view of it is fortified by historical testimony: the evidence of all observers goes to show that previously to the reorganization of the permanent Confederate army in April and May, 1862, and while the provisional army was still in existence and officers were elected by the men, nothing could exceed the laxity of discipline, the demoralization of temper and the inferiority in arms, equipment and transportation that marked the rebel force in Virginia. If that force afterward became an army whose formidable valor and superb discipline we have too often found out to our cost, it is to be attributed in great part to the time Gen. McCLELLAN gave them for consolidation, and the prestige and morale they gained by their victories over him.

But all comparison is superfluous: what we say is, that Gen. McCLELLAN's claim that there was anything in the discipline of his army to prevent his dealing a blow at the enemy before him, is a shallow makeshift that will no longer serve. If it had been designed to make a Prussian or an English army—a thing of pipeclay and pedantry, of the rattan and red tape—there might be some force in the call for months or for years, in which to perfect this painful and useless education. But for modern armies there is but one way: it is, after the rudiments of tactics are acquired, to put the men promptly into the field and let them be made soldiers by the hard realities of war. Now, that the great army around Washington had, any time during the Fall or Winter of 1861-2, all the theoretical training needed, can be proved by an array of testimony that puts the question beyond any possibility of cavil. In proof of this, we shall make a few extracts from the testimony given before the Congressional Committee on the Conduct of the War, in reference to the condition of the Army of the Potomac in the latter part of 1861. Gen. FRANKLIN testifies:

QUESTION—Now, in reference to the morale of your division; do you believe the morale of it could be improved any by remaining in Winter-quarters until next April?

ANSWER—No, Sir. Not at all. I believe we would be ready to start to-morrow.

QUESTION—Now, as to discipline—are you in as good condition now to make a forward movement as you would be then?

ANSWER—I think so; just as good a condition.

Gen. FITZ JOHN PORTER testifies:

QUESTION—What is the condition of your men as regards health?

ANSWER—As good if not better than any other division of the army.

QUESTION—What is their condition as regards discipline?

ANSWER—As fine as any in the army.

QUESTION—The morale of your men is excellent, is it?

ANSWER—I have not the slightest doubt of it; and when the time comes when they are to be used, I do not think it will be from their fault, but ours, if they do not act well.

Gen. KEYES testifies:

QUESTION—What can you say of your troops as to discipline?

ANSWER—The discipline of nearly all my regiments is excellent. I should say that in the case of one regiment it is not good; in the case of one other it is indifferent—in regard to all the others it is good.

Gen. WADSWORTH testifies:

QUESTION—Is it your opinion that to drill your troops in camp till Spring would improve their condition?

ANSWER—I think it would not; but would rather impair them.

Gen. ROSECRANS, then in Virginia, testifies:

QUESTION—Do you see any way in which the army can be in a better condition as a whole to commence active operations four or six months hence than at the present moment?

ANSWER—In the first place, it is not military knowledge, but military habits that you want. They will improve in schools of instruction, such as there are here, but after all, before the fate of the nation is decided, men have to fight, and before they fight a decisive battle—before they become very reliable troops—they must be hardened up to it.

QUESTION—In other words, you think you cannot theoretically make veteran troops.

ANSWER—No Sir; I look upon that as about like a man never going into the water until he knows how to swim.

It was in this way, and not by the pedantry of the martinet, that the armies of the Thirty-years' War, of the American Revolution, and of the great French Revolution, were formed. In 1813 rough German levies fought almost before they were drilled, and at Bautzen French recruits were victorious over the elaborately trained machines that formed the armies of Austria, Prussia and Russia. Disastrous as Bull Run was in its military results, it, beyond a doubt, did more to make our men soldiers than all the reviews, parades, and sham fights with which Gen. McCLELLAN amused a country whose life and national honor were all the while ebbing away.

We have now exhausted the several reasons alleged by Gen. McCLELLAN in excuse for his long delay, from August, 1861, to April, 1862; and we have examined them with some fullness, because we believe there is a close logical connection between that inaction and all the subsequent ill-fortune of the Army of the Potomac. We have shown that there is nothing in those excuses whether drawn from the condition of the roads and the season, or from the strength and discipline of our own army, or that of the rebels, to justify it. No, no! not all the shallow devices which a year of afterthought can bring to the extenuation of military incapacity can either explain or exculpate that fatal delay which gave the rebels their best ally, Time; which made the timid among us despair and the proudest hang their heads with shame; and which almost authorized foreign recognition of the rebellion by our seeming inability to put it down. "In November 1861," says Gen. BARNARD, Chief-Engineer of the Army of the Potomac, in his official report, "the army, if not fully supplied with all the materiel, was yet about as complete in numbers, discipline and organization as it ever became. For four months the great marine avenue to the Capital of the nation was blockaded, and that Capital kept in a partial state of siege, by a greatly inferior enemy, in face of a movable army of 150,000 men. Though delay might mature more comprehensive plans and promise greater results, it is not the first case in which it has been shown that successful war involves something more than abstract military principles. The true question was to seize the first practicable moment to satisfy the (perhaps unreasonable, but) natural longing of an impatient nation for results to justify its lavish confidence, and to take advantage of an undivided command and untrammeled liberty of action while it was possessed."

FROM ALBANY.

The State Militia $200,000 Item of the Appropriation Bill Stricken Out—Increased Tax on Salt—The State Agricultural College.

Correspondence of the New-York Times:

ALBANY, Wednesday, March 2.

The Assembly disposed of the item in the Appropriation Bill giving two hundred thousand dollars to maintain the National Guard last evening, after protracted debate. A motion was finally made to strike out the appropriation, and debate was cut off by ordering the previous question. The appropriation was stricken out, and it is now anticipated that the militia question will be taken up and considered upon an entirely new basis. There was some lively speaking in the course of the discussion, last evening, but no special excitement. Gen. CROOKE, of King's County, made a characteristic speech, and attracted attention, as he usually does, by his sharp, animated and pithy style. Mr. BENEDICT had examined the question and looked up the facts in the case, and presented much that was new to the members, and had an important influence in bringing the House to a speedy decision and action upon the subject. It appears that the Militia Law of 1862 was enacted under apprehension of an invasion of our Northern frontier. Those who take note of public opinion, or legislative proceedings, will recall the debates of 1862 in the Assembly, in regard to making special and extended preparations for defence against invasions from Canada. It will be remembered that the State came very near entering, at that time, upon a plan for building fortifications, which subsequent events have shown would have been very ill-advised. The Militia Law passed at that time is, almost as a matter of course, shaped somewhat in accordance with what was then believed to be a pressing exigency. Like other laws passed under similar circumstances, it requires remodeling, or, in the opinion of some members, modifying and perfecting. With all the light that has been thrown upon military matters in the course of the last three years, it will be surprising if some improvement cannot be made in the existing law. It is understood that a new bill upon the subject, in some form, will soon be prepared and presented to the Assembly for consideration, the Military Committee having been instructed to prepare such a bill.

The appropriation of fifteen hundred dollars for a Court of Conciliation in Delaware County, or the Sixth Judicial District, was also struck from the Appropriation Bill, and it was then ordered to a third reading. A bill was reported abolishing the Court of Conciliation in said judicial district.

One of those Canal Claim Bills, which prove so troublesome on every occasion when they are considered, came up in the Senate this morning. As usual, a very important general principle was soon found to be involved in the bill, and a protracted debate, without reaching any conclusion, ensued.

A proposition to increase the tax on salt has been brought before the Legislature by Mr. JACKSON, who introduced two bills to-day in Assembly, providing to tax the manufacture of salt at the rate of six cents per bushel. The present tax, it will be remembered, is only one cent. The contest which has often been witnessed in the Assembly upon the question of the salt revenue will, it is presumed, be renewed this session.

A competitor with the People's College for the Agricultural College Fund, donated to the several States by act of Congress, has presented its claims to the Legislature. An institution located at Ovid, in Seneca County, styling itself the State Agricultural College, has presented its report, by Mr. CORNELL, to the Senate. The report states that the institution was founded in 1853 by Mr. DELAFIELD, and subsequently commenced active operations under the guidance of President M. R. PATRICK, and a full board of instructors. Seven hundred and fifty acres of land were purchased, and buildings erected to accommodate 150 students. In December, 1860, the college was opened for pupils, but on the breaking out of the rebellion became financially embarrassed, and failing to gain any assistance from the Legislature, was closed in November, 1861. The Trustees of the institution claim that one-half of the Agricultural College Fund of this State ought to be granted to this New-York State Agricultural College.

They cure Diarrhœa and Cholera Morbus.
They cure Liver Complaint and Nervous Headache.
They make the weak strong, the languid brilliant, and are exhausted nature's great restorer. They are composed of the celebrated Calisaya bark, wintergreen, sassafras, roots and herbs, all preserved in perfectly pure St. Croix rum. For particulars see circulars and testimonials around each bottle.

Beware of impostors. Examine every bottle. See that it has our private United States stamp unmutilated over the cork, with plantation scene, and our signature on a fine steel plate side label. See that our bottle is not refilled with spurious and deleterious stuff. Any person pretending to sell Plantation Bitters by the gallon or in bulk, is an impostor. Any person imitating this bottle, or selling any other material therein, whether called Plantation Bitters or not, is a criminal under the United States law, and will be so prosecuted by us. We already have our eye on several parties refilling our bottles, &c., who will succeed in getting themselves into close quarters. The demand for Drake's Plantation Bitters from ladies, clergymen, merchants, &c., is incredible. The simple trial of a bottle is the evidence we present of their worth and superiority. They are sold by all respectable druggists, grocers, physicians, hotels, saloons, steamboats and country stores.

DEAFNESS AND CATARRH CURED.

No. 420 SIXTH-AV., NEW-YORK, Dec. 2, 1863.

I was deaf for several years, and hearing of the great cures performed by Dr. Von Eisenberg, I was induced to place myself under his care, and I am now happy to state that my hearing was entirely restored after a short treatment. I was also suffering from chronic catarrh, of which I was also cured by the skillful treatment of Dr. Von Eisenberg. I do but justice to the Doctor in stating that in treating me he displayed that skill and knowledge which have already procured for him such a deserved reputation, and that the principles which direct his system of curing Deafness and Catarrh are such as to render success certain, in my opinion. Many months have passed since Dr. Von Eisenberg restored my hearing, and it continues as good as ever.

CATARRH CURED.
READ!

I have been suffering for a long time from a severe Catarrh, with a continual dullness in my head, a tightness across my chest, a weight over my eyes, which were weak, watery, and very painful. My nostrils were constantly obstructed with a pouring fluid. That frequent sneezing, hoarseness of my voice, often attended with a fullness of my throat, great soreness, and a continual dropping. Dr. Von Eisenberg has cured me of all these disagreeable sufferings. I may, indeed, say that I feel a new life. The treatment of Dr. Von Eisenberg is as skillful as it is successful. It is in my opinion impossible to overrate the benefit I have received at his hands. I heartily recommend any one suffering like myself to place themselves under Dr. Von Eisenberg's care, with a certainty of being speedily cured.

HARLEM, July 30, 1863.

I have been deaf for over TWENTY-FIVE YEARS, and Dr. VON EISENBERG operated on both of my ears without the slightest pain—a thing that I could not believe could be done. I now hear well, and feel as I never felt for the last twenty years. The dexterity and skill with which the operation was performed evince the highest practical ability. I hear perfectly. It is now over a month since the operation, and I continue to feel as well as ever.

I have been completely deaf in one ear, and partially so in the other, for above seventeen years, with a disagreeable discharge from both ears, combined with continual rumbling noise in the head, for which I have been treated by a most eminent practitioner in the City without the slightest relief.

I consulted Dr. Von Eisenberg, but I must candidly say that I had no faith in his success when I did so. It is, therefore, due to Dr. Von Eisenberg to acknowledge that I am entirely cured; also, that he displayed that skill and knowledge which have procured for him such an unrivaled reputation. As I have had an opportunity of comparing his mode of treatment with that of others, I can truly state that it is not only superior, but the principles which direct his mode of restoring the hearing are, in my opinion, certain.

NEW-YORK, July 19, 1863.

This certifies that my mother has been for some time afflicted with partial deafness, suffering from pain, and rumbling noises in the head, together with other indications of a total loss of hearing. Dr. Von Eisenberg removed from her ears a great quantity of matter, together with coagulated blood, relieving her instantaneously, and all without pain. It is with grateful thanks that I give this testimony to his skill.

CHRONIC CATARRH CURED.

NEW-YORK, March 20, 1863.

"This is to certify, that I have suffered from very severe CHRONIC CATARRH, with a dull heaviness in the head. I felt my nose completely stopped up accompanied by continual soreness of the throat, the chills stealing over me with occasional hot flushes, a great tightness of the chest and pain, so much so, that every one thought it was consumption. Having heard of the great cures performed by Dr. Von Eisenberg, I consulted him with but little hope of a cure. I am now happy to be enabled to add my testimonial to the great number already in the Doctor's possession, as to his scientific and successful mode of treatment, as he has shown in my case that skill and knowledge which have procured for him so great a reputation. I am so entirely restored to perfect health that I do most sincerely recommend all sufferers from CHRONIC CATARRH and SORE THROAT to apply at once to Dr. Von Eisenberg with a certainty of being cured."

WAYS AND CUSTOMS OF THE PRODUCE EXCHANGE.

Thirty thousand bushels of Prime Western Mixed Corn were advertised to be sold at auction on the 25th February instant, at the auction house of Messrs. Burdett, Jones & Co. in this City. As a sale of corn at public auction was noticed in the papers as being somewhat unusual in these times, a history of the whole affair may not be without interest, and certainly not without profit to the business community.

Luther Calvin Tibbets who, it will be recollected, was incarcerated in the City Prison for attempting to vindicate his rights on the floor of the so-called "Produce Exchange" has no small interest, as it will be made to appear, hereafter, in this proposed sale of corn. The facts are simply these: the world can pronounce judgment upon them. Some time since, prior to his incarceration, Mr. Tibbets had become a large purchaser in corn, probably a larger purchaser than all the other dealers in this City. There can be no dispute as to the fairness of his purchases, as his contracts establish that beyond question. Whether from jealously, or from a certain indefinable fear among speculators and dealers generally, it soon became evident that a loud and rampant opposition was springing up in their midst against Mr. Tibbets as a dealer in corn, not because he had failed to act openly and above-board, or because he had resorted to any of the tricks of trade, since the business community wherever he is known will admit to a man that he has always aimed to act up to the law, seeming to study how he might enforce it rather than evade it, no matter whether such a course might result in pecuniary profit or loss to himself. He has looked upon the law as a shield to protect everybody, and not as some trouble, some nuisance, to be kicked out of the way if it could not be evaded. Such a course may be a hard road to travel, but that he has aimed to travel in that road, no one will dare stand up and deny. Certainly, there would be opposition. He knew it, and was willing to look it right in the face. Though perfectly familiar with business, from long experience in this City, his most extensive operations in corn commenced but a few months since. He was formerly a merchant here, but retired some years since with a good name and the fair results of industry and integrity. He came back to this City no miserable or thriftless adventurer upon the sea of speculation, but a deep, sagacious, calculating man with means, and willing to make more, if more could be made honestly. When such a man of tried experience comes to New-York City to embark in any of its great business enterprises, he may see corruption and fraud and gambling right in the marts of trade, where men profess to abhor corruption and fraud and gambling; so that the evil is sought to be hid by that fostering hypocrisy, which overshadows it, but cannot conceal it. What shall a man do who thinks he has wit enough and experience enough to make money in this great Metropolis, and yet has some sense of justice lurking somewhere in his bosom, and who says, "I must make my money, not by dodges, and shifts, and hand to mouth expedients in a corner—no; none of this, but in the broad open highway of an honorable competition. What shall he do? What! Shall he be a coward, and in attempting to make money lose his manhood; or stand out boldly and say, "With money or without money, I am, and, by the grace of God, I will be a man?" Now, some people may say this sounds very finely, and would do very well for angels if they were going into business, but it is quite too impracticable for men speculating in the City of New-York. Well, for good or for evil, Mr. Tibbets came to this City with some of these angelic notions in his head, and tried to act up to them. He went right to the Produce Exchange and engaged in speculation. Of course he was a rare object of curiosity there—they didn't know him, and one introduction couldn't make them acquainted with him either.

At length men looked at him only to be amused at such a strange object; and he looked at them to be quite as much amused also. It was quite a strange sight, indeed; it was lions looking at Daniel, and Daniel looking at the lions, acted over again. Gradually Mr. Tibbets became quite a heavy purchaser in corn, and it was soon noised about that he was the largest produce dealer in the City. Other dealers were surprised and quite confounded; but no man said he was dishonest; he had only been buying all the corn he could at the lowest rates, and was waiting to sell when he liked. He had learned the tricks of trade in the market; he had seen how men could go into the Produce Exchange, without owning one bushel of corn, or worth a single dollar, and pretend to sell thousands of bushels, and that course, too, was sanctioned by the managers of the Produce Exchange, if the corn was only forthcoming when called for. We are all honorable men, said they, if we only have the wherewithal when we are called upon to be honorable. He also saw how gambling was carried on to an alarming extent. Against such practices Mr. Tibbets openly protested and brought the matter before the Board of the Produce Exchange on three several occasions. But the board looked wise and said it could do nothing, though Mr. Tibbets then clearly demonstrated how such practices would demoralize the association and bring many of its members to ruin. But the board said there was no remedy. He then saw how the market could be made to fluctuate by a little boldness in operating on the fears, but oftener on the stupidity, of men, so that, like the Ghost of Banquo, corn was up or down at the bidding of some master-spirit of the mart. Now, as Mr. Tibbets was not possessed of any unusual amount of fear or stupidity, his corn did not take any of these ghost-like ups and downs—it only rested in peace. He operated boldly, yet honestly; kept buying all the corn he could; offered higher prices than anyone else, as he knew it would advance, and as subsequent events have disclosed. And on the floor of the Produce Exchange he openly and fairly made his offers for still more corn at higher prices still, till his comrades, no longer coming in competition with him, mainly because they could not, and seeing themselves seemingly outdistanced in the race, now made children of themselves, resorting to ridicule, throwing whole handsfull of corn at him, as he stood there fearlessly bidding them compete with him on the prices, they using language the most insulting, and pelting him with balls of dough, as if such petty missiles could now put down the man whom they abhorred. At last, determined to get rid of him without law or the shadow of a right, as will yet be shown hereafter, he is expelled from the Produce Exchange from this association of honorable men, and his name is sought to be made a byword in the community, and to justify their folly he is called crazy and mad, and his enemies, determined to break him down, make themselves busy in warning the banks and capitalists not to lend him money, thus striving to cripple him in the very market where he had so firmly stood up, only demanding justice at the hands of every one with whom he had dealt; attempting also to impeach his reason, that the doors of the banks might be shut against him, to bring disaster upon his affairs. Thus circumstanced, and seeing himself thus constituted the victim of a power unjustly exercised, he resisted, and resolved to go into the Exchange to vindicate there his rights, at the loss of his property and the sacrifice of his life, if necessary. The account of that affair has already been given to the world. It has been said he was crazy, and had gone mad by speculation. Now, could there have been a statement more false? At the moment of that affray, he may have been crazy, or mad, or both; but at the bar of conscience, if not at some human tribunal, at a day not far distant, it will be determined where the responsibility lies—on him seeking only justice, or on them who have dared to lay rude hands on the citadel of reason, only to involve it in discord and confusion, that their own selfish purposes may be subserved. Strike down the man, destroy his reason, that we may prosper. The sequel of this unfortunate affair resulted in Mr. Tibbets' imprisonment in the Tombs for two weeks, though the Policeman was evidently past danger within a few hours after his injury. How it was sought to convert the Tombs prison into an insane asylum, and to keep Mr. Tibbets there days and days longer than justice required, or even humanity demanded, is one of those mysteries which will probably be exposed hereafter. But his enemies are not yet satisfied; they still demand a sacrifice, and though they have not ruined him they are still eager to do it.

And now let us turn again to the sale of the thirty thousand bushels of corn at auction to have taken place on Friday last. This corn Mr. Tibbets had bought with other large quantities, on which partial payments had been made, but owing to his imprisonment a balance still remained unpaid. Though bars and bolts had been thrust between him and the meeting of his obligations, a sale of thirty thousand bushels of his corn at auction was sought on Friday last, without giving him any legal notice of the same, or without notifying him in any manner whatever of the object of that sale. It was admitted by the seller of the corn in question that Mr. Tibbets had purchased it, and was the owner of it, and yet he has never been advised what object the same seller had in view in offering to resell the corn at auction. Against such snap sale, and so clearly illegal, as the facts which Mr. Tibbets can establish will clearly show, he went to the auction-house of Messrs. Burdett, Jones & Co. on Friday last, just prior to the sale, and attended by counsel he protested against any such disposal of his property, claiming still the protection of the law, and notifying all bidders that the corn would not be delivered under any such sale. At this announcement the auction was adjourned to Tuesday next, at 1½ P. M., and into Mr. Tibbets' hands, on that occasion, was placed the following notice:

To Luther C. Tibbets:

DEAR SIR: You will please take notice that I hereby give you notice, that the sale of the corn bought by you of me, and which was adversised to be sold on the account of whom it might concern, at the auction-house of Messrs. Burdett, Jones & Co., No. 109 Wall-st., as per notice of sale served upon you yesterday, is hereby adjourned to Tuesday, the 1st of March, 1864, at 1½ o'clock P. M. of that day, at the same place. The sale to be at public auction, in accordance with printed notice of sale hereto annexed.

(Signed) E. A. MOEN.

The notice of sale stated to be served on Mr. Tibbets "yesterday," to wit, the 25th instant, was simply a letter addressed to him through the Post-office, only one day prior to the sale, and containing only a statement that his corn was to be sold on the following day, but on what account or for what purpose did not appear. So far as this notice went, it was just as indefinite and worthless as the one just above recited, only going to establish still more firmly this one thing: that there is still a persistent and unlawful attempt to sell Mr. Tibbets' property almost without his knowledge, and certainly without his consent, still ignoring the law which he claims must still protect him. The printed notice to referred is only an advertisement of a sale of so much corn at auction, without defining the object of the sale. And these proceedings, too, purports to have been instituted by a lawyer, as Mr. Moen, from whom Mr. Tibbets purchased, claimed to be attended by a lawer, at the proposed sale on Friday last. Now, whether business men are ignorant, or willful, or both, these snap-sales indicate a total ignorance of the law, and an attempt to disregard the rights of a much abused, though a not yet ruined man. Do they want only their dues, or do they crave more? Justice is still on his side. In this attempted sale it is sought to establish a precedent, by which others may cover up some of their dealings with Mr. Tibbetts, which are just as clearly contrary to law and justice; and it will soon be tested how far such precedents can help men in a bad cause.

If business men in New-York, or out of it, and espacially those engaged in the produce trade, are sufficiently interested in this contest of right against wrong, let them express that interest, and their sympathy too, either publicly or privately. That will be another prop and a mighty support to a faithful business man, and to the just cause in which he is engaged. Let these men be made to tremble in this unholy attempt to ruin a man, by having him declared insane, and thrust into an insane asylum, that they may consummate their wicked plans. Let the thousand fingers of public opinion point them out. Their names and further facts will be fearlessly given, if called for. In this unrighteous attempt to ruin an honest man, the community here and elsewhere should be advised, as there must be a cloud of witnesses, anxious to look on in such a contest, to see whether justice may not at last come to judgment.

BRANDRETH'S PILLS—THEIR MEDICAL QUALITIES.—In small and repeated doses the effect of Brandreth's Vegetable Universal Pills is to increase the activity of the secreting and excreting organs. The alvine discharges become more liquid, and contain a larger proportion of bile. The operation of this extraordinary medicine does not stop here; the membranes of the lungs, of the eyes, and all the membranes become moister; the urine is increased in quantity, except in cases of Diabetes, when the secretion is reduced; the skin becomes damper, and at the same time warmer where too cool, and cooler if too warm. So that Brandreth's Pills seem to vitalize and promote the excretions generally. Even accumulations of fluids in the shut sacs—as the plura, the peritoneum, the arachnoid, and synovial membranes—diminish in quantity, and in some cases rapidly disappear, from the use of these Pills. They remove, at the same time, all glandular swellings, enlargements and indurations. Phlegmonous and other tumors are apparently melted away by their use, as well as small or large pimples from the face, eyebrows, &c., &c. In large doses, say of from five to ten Pills, they act as a powerful purgative, clearing the bowels first of their contents, and then acting upon the internal organs, cleansing them of slime, mucus, or any concretions not required for their healthy action. Thus the action of Brandreth's Pills is what is required to bring about that state in all the organs which results in their full restoration to health. The blood-vessels, as well as the blood, are thus restored to perfect purity and vigor.

A complete edition of Gen. McClellan's Report is now published by Sheldon & Co., of this City, and under Gen. McClellan's own revision. We have already noticed the extraordinary omissions and inaccuracies in the report published by Congress, in the Rebellion Record, and in some other editions. The excuses given for this are, we hope, the correct one, viz.: "That some pages of copy had fallen from a compositor's desk, or been mislaid in the Government printing office."

Some have supposed that the importance of these omissions, relating as they do to the very interesting midsummer campaign of 1862, were intentional. We trust and believe not; but be this as it may, we are glad to be supplied with a correct and complete copy of one of the most interesting war reports ever submitted to public inspection.

TWO-THIRDS OF THE SIXTH EDITION OF FAITH GARTNEY'S GIRLHOOD

Are already sold, which is a remarkable success. Read it, and you will wonder why so refreshing a story of a young girl's growth into womanhood has not reached its Twentieth. The answer is, it will come in due time. It is not in the least "sensational," but has the ring of the true metal in it, which will endure.

Sensation Novels startle every one, have enormous sales, die as suddenly, and are wholly forgotten. The really great one comes up slowly, grows stronger and stronger, and is never forgotten.

Such an one is
FAITH GARTNEY'S GIRLHOOD.

It has already achieved a brilliant success and won undying fame, while every new edition will only intensify the delight of those who were at first attracted to it, and whose generous praise has aided it forward. It should be in the hands of every young girl.

Oliver Street, Oakley & Mason, John Bradburn, Sheldon & Co., Pooley & Co., Dick & Fitzgerald, Am. News Co., Wood, Miller, Appleton, and all the Broadway booksellers have it.

The Chicago and Great Eastern Railway Company now offer for sale one million one hundred thousand dollars of their first mortgage bonds, in sums of one thousand dollars each, maturing in thirty years, bearing interest at the rate of Seven per cent. per annum, payable in the City of New-York, on the first days of April and October, in each year.

These bonds are secured by a first and only Mortgage on the property, income and franchises of the Railway Company, executed to Frederick Schuchardt and Henry Morgan, of the City of New-York, Trustees.

The remaining nine hundred thousand dollars of the Bonds are set apart and remain in the hands of the said Trustees, for the purpose of being exchanged for the indebtedness of the Chicago and Cincinnati Railroad Company, running from La Crosse to Logansport; this effected, the $2,000,000 will form a First and only Mortgage on a line of road 110 miles in length, extending from Chicago to Logansport, where it connects with the Cincinnati and Chicago Air-line Railroad, forming the shortest line by 40 miles, between Chicago and Cincinnati, and by 36 miles the shortest line between Louisville and Chicago.

It will also open, in connection with roads now in operation, entirely new and very direct lines from Chicago to New-York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and all Eastern cities. The distance between Chicago and New-York by this route being shorter than by either of the existing lines via Dunkirk or Buffalo.

The road is now under contract, and the most strenuous efforts are being made to have it open for traffic during the Summer of 1864.

The interest on the Bonds maturing during the progress of the work has been provided for, and will remain on deposit with the Bankers of the Company, Messrs SCHUCHARDT & GEBHARD, No. 21 Nassau-st., to whom the Company refer for further particulars, and where subscription books for this loan have been opened.

METROPOLITAN FAIR OF THE U. S. SANITARY COMMISSION.

TO THE WHOLESALE AND RETAIL CLOTHING AND MEN'S FURNISHING TRADE OF NEW-YORK.

The undersigned have been appointed a committee to represent the Wholesale and Retail Clothing and Men's Furnishing Trade in the Great Metropolitan Fair to be held in this City, commencing on the 28th of March next.

You are doubtless aware that its object is to supply funds to the UNITED STATES SANITARY COMMISSION.

The services of this commission are now recognized by the entire army and nation, as having been beneficial, opportune and merciful in an eminent degree. Every battle-field attests their devotion to the sick and wounded soldiers. Their future usefulness depends upon the promptness and generous liberality with which we, who at home have been blessed with unparalleled prosperity, shall step forward to supply them with the means to this end.

The nation and the brave veterans who imperil their lives to save it, demand a generous response.

All branches of trade have their committees at work, vieing with each other as to which shall contribute the most to this great work.

Let our trade, (hardly second in importance to any other,) be the first, if possible, in the amount of its contributions.

One or more members of the committee will take pleasure in calling upon you in a few days.

Contributions will be received in either money or merchandise.

If in money, it may be sent to either of the committee; if in merchandise, each article should be plainly marked with the price and donor's name, as it will appear at the Fair, and sent to the receiving depot, No. 2 Great Jones-st.

TO THE WHOLESALE DRY GOODS MERCHANTS OF NEW-YORK.
METROPOLITAN FAIR.
NEW-YORK, Feb. 16, 1864.

The undersigned have been appointed a committee to represent the Wholesale Dry Goods Merchants in the Metropolitan Fair, to commence in this City on the 28th of March next. It will be held under the management of the Ladies of the City, who will be aided by an Advisory Committee of Gentlemen. Its object is to supply funds to the United States Sanitary Commission.

The services of this commission have been recognized throughout the entire army as in the highest degree beneficial. Every battle-field has been the witness of their noble, merciful and successful labors—imparting to the sick and wounded help, comfort and hope; and to those in arms, confidence and courage. All who are enabled to pursue their avocations in ease and safety at home cannot do less than provide for the sufferings of the brave soldiers who expose themselves to sickness, wounds and death, to maintain the unity and promote the welfare of their country.

Contributions for this purpose are requested in money or merchandise. If in money, it may be sent to either of the committee; if in merchandise, to the Receiving Depot, No. 2 Great Jones-st.

The magnitude of the wholesale dry goods interest—comprising the domestic and foreign commission houses, importers and jobbers—calls for a corresponding contribution to this object of benevolence and duty, such as will not only compare favorably with the results of fairs held successfully in other places, and with the contributions of other interests in the City, but also be esteemed worthy of the liberality and patriotism of the commercial Metropolis of the country.

NEW-YORK FIRE DEPARTMENT COMMITTEE OF THE METROPOLITAN FAIR IN AID OF THE UNITED STATES SANITARY COMMISSION, OFFICE NO. 744 BROADWAY.

THE ABOVE COMMITTEE TAKE THIS method of calling the attention of the Fire Department generally to the necessity of immediate action on their part, in order to successfully accomplish our share of this praiseworthy object.

Fire Companies that have not already made the necessary arrangements are earnestly requested to call special meetings and appoint committees from the active and honorary members, to take the matter in charge.

To the Exempt Firemen who have no particular company associations, and to the public generally, the committee earnestly appeal for contributions either of money or articles of value.

Fire Departments in the adjoining cities and throughout the State are requested to join with the New-York Fire Department in aiding this laudable undertaking.

A prominent position in the fair has been allotted to the Fire Department, and will be under the especial charge of the committee.

Contributions can be sent to the Rooms No. 744 Broadway, where they will be received and acknowledged.

The Executive Committee will be in daily attendance at the receiving depot, and will furnish any information desired.

METROPOLITAN FAIR FOR THE UNITED STATES SANITARY COMMISSION.—COMMITTEE ON WHOLESALE GROCERIES.—The members of the above committee have to announce to the importers of all descriptions of groceries, to the wholesale trade, and to all merchants connected with the receiving and selling of all merchandise coming under the classification of groceries, that they have completed all preliminary arrangements, and that the attestment of names for each member to call upon has been made.

It is confidently anticipated that the contributions through this committee, representing so large and wealthy a class of our citizens, will equal those made through any committee of the Metropolitan Fair.

The members of the committee will wait upon the merchants for their contributions within a few days, and the labors of the members will be greatly facilitated if gentlemen will take the subject into consideration at once, and be prepared to respond at the time of the call being made.

MRS. HAYWARD'S PULMON SYRUP—for catarrh, bronchitis and weak lungs, sold at No. 311 Nassau-st., Brooklyn.

HUNDREDS ARE RUINED BEYOND redemption in this life by not calling on Dr. HUNTER at first; he has for thirty years confined his attention to diseases of a certain class, in which he has cured no less than fifty thousand cases. His remedies are mild, and there is no interruption to business or change of diet. Dr. HUNTER is in constant attendance from 8 o'clock in the morning until 10 at night, at his old office, No. 3 Division-st. Charges moderate, and a cure guaranteed. Separate rooms, so that the patient sees no one but the Doctor himself. His wonderful medical discovery, Dr. Hunter's Red Drops, cures certain diseases, when regular treatment and all other remedies fail; cures without dieting or restriction in the habits of the patient; cures without the disgusting and sickening effect of all other remedies; cures in new cases in less than six hours; cures without the dreadful consequent effects of mercury, and possesses the peculiarly valuable property of annihilating the rank and poisonous taint that the blood is sure to absorb unless his remedy is used. This is what he claims for it, and what no other will accomplish. It is $1 a vial, with a medical work on Human Frailty, Nervous Debility, Early Indiscretion, and consultation gratis.

CAUTION TO LADIES, SINGLE AND MARRIED.—Every woman truly a lady, has an aversion to call in or upon a physician, in respect to complaints peculiar to her sex. Besides the shock to her delicacy in consulting persons, most of whom know nothing of her ailments, she incurs worse than useless expense in buying injurious pills, drops, potions, &c. No lady need call upon the numerous doctors with whom to uselessly spend her means, as "The Married Womans' Private Medical Companion," price $1, by A. M. Mauriceau, Professor of Diseases of Women, designed especially for the married or those about to be married, points out the mode of treatment to remove obstructions, irregularities, or her other ailments, as mother or wife, with the causes and symptoms, and what best to do. Sold at his office, No. 129 Liberty-st., New-York; or can be sent by mail, free of postage, to any part of the United States and Canada, by inclosing $1, and addressing Box No. 1,224 New-York City. For sale at No. 1 Vesey-st., (Astor House,) and 18 Ann-st.; FEDERHEN & CO., 13 Court-st., Boston.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

OUR LONDON CORRESPONDENCE.

LONDON, Tuesday, Feb. 16, 1864.

Members of Parliament are talking about the treaties of the last century, while the armies of Austria and Prussia have driven the Danes out of the two Provinces, and are about to attack them in Alsen and Jutland. It is natural enough that the Peers of seventy, seventy-five or eighty years of age, as Prince NAPOLEON remarked the other day at Paris, should have faith in treaties, constitutions and alliances which they helped to make when they were in the prime of their manhood; but the Generals of an invading army stuff these antiquated and obsolete documents into the mouths of their cannon. While England talks, Germany fights.

The English army press makes the campaign in Denmark the text for a new attack upon the conduct of the war in America. "See what real Generals can do with real, disciplined, European armies." It might be well enough to look at the map first, and the scale of miles appended. Why, the field of operations is about as large as the State of Connecticut, the roads in good order, the advance by rail, and the preponderance of force overwhelming, and that not of raw levies, but the pick of armies numbering in the aggregate nearly or quite a million of men; armies, large numbers of whom were in the campaign of Italy. But our old friend J. B. is not in a good humor. He feels surly: his head is down, his brow corrugated: he is uttering low and ominous growls, and may make an ugly rush in some direction at any moment.

In the Lords, last night, Earl DERBY renewed his attack upon RUSSELL, for yielding to the threats of the American Government. Earl RUSSELL denied the soft impeachment. He had made up his mind to stop the rams three days before receiving the urgent remonstrances of the American Secretary. "Then why did you say that the matter was under serious consideration, if you had made up your mind?" asked DERBY. "Because, though I had made up my mind and wrote to Lord PALMERSTON what I was going to do, it was under consideration in the Treasury Department," answers RUSSELL. "But how about that dispatch which Mr. ADAMS did not communicate to you?"

And now the truth came out at last. Mr. LAYARD, a few nights ago, in answer to some searching interrogatories of Lord R. CECIL. I believe, declared upon his honor, that the Government had had no intimation of such a dispatch as that of the 11th of July; but last night Earl RUSSELL, pushed to the wall by DERBY, confessed that Mr. ADAMS, when he had received any dispatch from Washington which might be unpleasant, had been in the habit of keeping it safe in his pocket, while he informed Earl RUSSELL verbally of its purport, and this, you will remember, is precisely the explanation I gave in one of my recent letters. It is, perhaps, proper to say that I did not get my information from Mr. ADAMS, or any member of the American Embassy; but it was none the less authentic.

The truth is, that the American Secretary of State has played his cards like a master, and has been ably seconded by Mr. ADAMS. Earl RUSSELL, like the old coon in the story, has come down every time, as soon as the gun was pointed at him, and Mr. ADAMS has not been obliged to play his trumps or expend his ammunition. Federal diplomacy has won a series of brilliant victories, more important than many in the field. It was this that made Mr. MASON withdraw to Paris. He saw, long ago, that he had not the least chance with Earl RUSSELL, who treated him with positive discourtesy. America could scarcely wish for a better ally than Earl RUSSELL, and it was by his orders, no doubt, that a Confederate cruiser has just been seized by the British authorities at the Cape of Good Hope. It is not improbable that orders have been sent to other Colonial ports, to seize other Confederate privateers, which, if this policy is really adopted, will be compelled to resort to French and Spanish ports in future.

The news of the proclamation for a draft of five hundred thousand men has created a little surprise, and, perhaps, more than surprise—consternation. A country entering upon the fourth year of a war calls into the field half a million of men, in addition to previous levies of a million and a half. The idea is overwhelming to the English mind. England could send into the field, to the aid of Denmark, say twenty-five, or, at most, thirty thousand men. To raise a hundred thousand, beyond the volunteers or militia embodied for home defence, would be impossible. Yet England sees a country of less population raising annual levies, year after year, of half a million of soldiers. It may well be said that Englishmen do not understand America. They cannot understand the practicability of raising such armies, or of supporting them.

For all this, it would be wrong to say or think that English feeling in respect to the war has undergone any considerable change. If the Times is milder in its editorials, it is because of its intimate relations with the Government. Its animus is unchanged. The Times is as much Lord PALMERSTON's organ as the Morning Post. But Earl RUSSELL, with the Queen in his favor, is too strong for PALMERSTON. They are not in agreement on either the Danish question or the American; but the old Tycoon can only keep power by submitting his policy to that of the willful, irate, "meddling and muddling" Foreign Secretary.

Aside from the Government influence, which restrains its prominent organs, there is no change in the press. There is no change in Parliament. No one who has listened to one of its outbursts on the American question, since the opening of the session, from both sides and all parts of the House, can doubt about the very strong and decided sympathies of a large portion of its members. The Confederate loan, also, has gone steadily up from 30 to 52, which shows that the opinion of the Stock Exchange is something like the feeling in the House of Commons. In regard to intervention, the most commonly expressed opinion is, that it would not do just now; but that there was a time, some months ago, when the Government ought to have interfered, in conjunction, of course, with other Powers. The reason why it did not, might possibly be found in that dark and mysterious pocket of Minister ADAMS, where he keeps those dispatches, which are to be shown, or only talked about, as occasion may require.

On Friday night we are promised a debate on the claims for the vessels and cargoes destroyed by the Alabama. Lord ROBERT CECIL, the other night, characterized them as "insolent." There will, no doubt, be bitter speeches; there will be cheers and laughter, and all those expressions in which members of Parliament so freely indulge; but at the end of a long debate, lasting till 1 or 2 o'clock on Saturday morning, Mr. PEACOCKE will withdraw his resolution, because he will not dare to carry it to a division.

The Confederate sympathizers are very likely to have the best of it in the debate, though COBDEN, BRIGHT and FORSTER can always command the attention of the House; but when it comes to voting, the Government, on the American question, can command a majority—in no other way, by prudently moving the "previous question." But there will be no division. The Alabama claims, and all similar matters, it will be said, belong, not to Parliament, but to the judiciary. The cases of the Alexandra and the rams are now pending, and on their weary way to the House of Lords, if they ever reach that lofty but slow tribunal. So, after plenty of talk, wise or otherwise, the whole matter will be shelved, and left as now, an open question for future debate and negotiation. The claims are considered preposterous; but England is in the way of doing and submitting to preposterous things now-a-days.

The English are anxious not only about the force and numbers of the American army, but the power of American artillery. For a long time Lord LYONS furnished his Government with minute information in regard to artillery experiments and practice, iron-clads, &c.; but the extent of military operations made it desirable to have other information, and three officers have been sent over for that purpose. Officers have also been sent to watch the progress of affairs in Denmark. I do not learn whether the military gentlemen dispatched to America are to confine their observations to the Federal armies and navy, or whether, having seen what they can on our side, they will be instructed to pass over to the other. The information given up to this time has been more minute respecting the Confederate, than the Federal armies. We know, so far as English writers have informed us, more of LEE, LONGSTREET, JOHNSTON and BEAUREGARD than we do of GRANT, MEADE, BANKS and FOSTER. We have more accurate accounts of Southern than of Northern camps and implements of war.

MONADNOCK.

THE NEWS BY THE DAMASCUS.

PORTLAND, Wednesday, March 2.

The steamship Damascus, Capt. BROWN, which left Liverpool, at 2.30 o'clock, on the afternoon of the 18th, and Londonderry 19th ult., arrived at Portland at 10.50 o'clock this morning.

The Nova Scotian from Portland arrived at Londonderry at 9 o'clock morning of the 18th.

The Manchester Examiner believes the Government is resolved to terminate the Galway contract.

The Great Eastern was knocked down at auction to the newly formed Great Eastern Steamship Company, for only twenty-five thousand pounds sterling. The company had, however, previously purchased bonds of the old company to the extent of seventy thousand pounds sterling, which must be added to the above purchase money. Another person claims to have bid £25,000 at auction, and demands the ship.

Parliamentary proceedings on the 17th were unimportant. Mr. LAIRD's bill for a more efficient mode of testing anchors and chain-cables in the merchant service passed its second reading in the Commons after a long discussion.

The funds were inactive, but firm; discount demand moderate, and the tendency in rates downward. Gold was flowing to the Bank.

The rebel loan had further advanced to 54@56.

FRANCE.

It is stated that the arrangements for the departure of the Arch-Duke MAXIMILIAN for Paris, en route to Mexico, are complete.

The Revue des Deux Mondes contends that France and England lose by want of coöperation, and urges the reëstablishment of an active alliance to avert the catastrophe which menaces Denmark.

The Siècle (liberal organ) demands the support of France for Denmark, so shamefully abandoned by England.

It is stated that the Moniteur has been prohibited publishing Prince NAPOLEON's anti-English speech at the Suez Canal celebration.

The Bourse was firm; rentes 66f. 70c.

THE SCHLESWIG WAR.

The Prussians continued their operations against the intrenchments at Duppel, but the thaw retarded the movement of their heavy artillery, and delayed the attack. It was stated that Prince FREDERICK CHARLES of Prussia will command the attack.

It is asserted at Rendsburg that the Prussian Commander has summoned the Danes to evacute Duppel and the Island of Alsen, giving very short delay: failing to comply the Prussian Army would immediately occupy Jutland.

The Danes were strengthening the defences of Duppel and Alsen.

Thirty thousand Prussians are concentrated in the District of Lundesitt.

A Copenhagen paper says the Danish Government has received no proposals respecting an armistice.

SPAIN.

The Spanish Government has chartered seven steamers to convoy four thousand troops to reinforce the Army of the Antilles.

The Danish moniter iron-clad Krollkrake has attacked Engusund. She attempted to destroy the bridge erected by the Austro-Prussians in the Braager Peninsula, but could not get near enough to do so, owing to the shallow water. She fired 72 shots, and the German batteries fired 150. One shot went through her funnel.

The Germans drove the Danish pickets from the Stendrur and Nubel woods. The Danes subsequently rallied in force, when the Germans retired without offering resistance.

THE WAR IN SCHLESWIG.

The allied Prussian and Austrian armies were, according to the latest reports, devoting all their efforts to secure the Island of Alsen. Siege guns had been placed in position opposite the fortifications of Duppel; pontoon bridges had been rapidly forwarded to the German camp, and every preparation had been made to facilitate an operation, which, notwithstanding the overwhelming numbers of the assailants, must prove one of no ordinary difficulty.

The Prussians had three divisions of gunboats ready for sea.

Danish ships were cruising eastward and westward of the Island of Rugen.

The Danes are said to have made two successful sorties from Duppel, inflicting considerable loss on the Prussians. One Danish regiment, however, which sallied out, is said to have been nearly destroyed.

The Copenhagen journals regard an armistice as inadmissible, which stipulates for the evacuation of Schleswig.

The Danish ships-of-war are said to have been ordered to capture shipping belonging to all the States of the German Confederation.

A strong Danish fleet is said to have arrived off the Island of Alsen, to attack the invading Prussian transports.

He would, however, use other means to obtain their liberty or to ameliorate their condition.

Important Arrest of Counterfeiters.

A BOLD ATTEMPT TO DEFRAUD THE BRAZILIAN GOVERNMENT EXPOSED—TWO OF THE LEADERS IN CUSTODY.

Detectives ELDER and MCCORD, of this City, yesterday effected what they regard as a very important arrest. Certainly if all that appears in regard to the case at this stage of it be true the two detectives above named have performed a most timely and valuable service. From the testimony which has thus far been adduced, it seems that a short time since the police authorities of this City and Philadelphia received information from a reliable source that there was a well-organized company, having its headquarters in New-York, with a branch of the same located in Philadelphia. That the purpose of this band was to counterfeit a large number of the Treasury notes of the Brazilian Government, and afterward to circulate them throughout the United States and Europe. Officers ELDER and MCCORD were accordingly detailed to work up the case, at least so far as this City was concerned. After diligent efforts, they yesterday succeeded in securing two men, both of whom are believed to be leaders of this band of counterfeiters. Their names are JOSE GASTON, a Portugese, and a Mr. C. A. VAN DE LINDEN, a German merchant doing business at No. 37 Broadway, in this City. The prisoners were taken before Justice HOGAN, at the Tombs Police Court, where considerable evidence was taken against them.

Mr. Louis H. F. D'Aguiar, the Consul-General of the Brazilian Government, resident at this port, testified that he had been informed on good authority and verily believed that Jose Gaston and C. A. Van de Linden were, and had been for some time past, engaged in the manufacture of spurious Treasury notes, purporting to be the genuine Treasury notes of the Government which he represented, and that the same was done by the prisoners for the purpose of cheating and defrauding that Government and injuring her credit and financial position in the estimation of other nations.

Detective Elder testified that he and officer McCord arrested Gaston and Van de Linden; that Gaston sometimes goes by the name of Augustine Lettarll; that he found in the possession of the latter a few genuine Treasury notes of the Brazilian Government, and a very large number of spurious ones; these counterfeits were in various states of preparation, some of them nearly completed, and others just commenced—none of them entirely finished; Gaston confessed to Elder that he had given orders to a firm of lithographers in Philadelphia to have a large number of these notes executed in imitation of the genuine ones. GASTON further said to the officer that the paper of which they were to be made had all been prepared in water mark at great expense and with much care and skill; that such steps had been taken that in a very short time, if they had not been interrupted in the business, they would have been ready to issue enormous quantities of the counterfeits, not only in this country but in Europe.

VAN DE LINDEN, who is considered wealthy, was the man who was to furnish abundant means to have the notes well executed and put properly into circulation, and as compensation for the use of his capital and the risk he ran of being detected, he was to have the "lion's share."

Messrs. BRADY and STEWART have been employed by the Brazilian Consul-General to prosecute the case in this City in behalf of that Government, and Mr. FRANK BYRNE, with others, is engaged as counsel for the prisoners.

At the conlusion of the proceedings yesterday afternoon, Justice HOGAN committed both of the accused to answer.

It is stated on good authority that the scheme to flood this country and Europe with counterfeit Treasury notes of Brazil, was originated in the latter country by a thoroughly organized band of men, some of whom are wealthy and influential; that their primary object was to ruin the credit and finances of that nation in the eyes of the whole civilized world, and secondly to enrich themselves as much as possible. At all events it seems to have been a bold and gigantic enterprise. A large number of counterfeiters, both in this City and Philadelphia, are known to have been identified with it, either as leaders or as instruments in the hands of more designing rogues. The police of both cities are actively engaged in trying to secure their arrest.

Gen. Burnside at the Produce Exchange.

Major-Gen. BURNSIDE reached the Produce Exchange yesterday before the close of business. He was in citizen's dress, but was very speedily recognized, and introduced to several representative merchants by the President of the Commercial Association. Mr. ARCHIBALD BAXTER. The gallant officer entered freely into conversation with the merchants present, and seemed highly delighted with the cordiality of his reception, and his obviously great popularity on the floor of 'Change. At the close of the regular business hours, Mr. BAXTER called the assemblage to order, and formally announced the object of the visit of Gen. BURNSIDE.

Mr. J. HOBART HERRICK was chosen Secretary of the meeting.

Mr. BAXTER then referred at length to the aim of Gen. BURNSIDE in honoring the Produce Exchange with his presence, and, in the course of his remarks, spoke very eulogistically of the high personal character, the unselfish patriotism and professional reputation of their distinguished guest.

Gen. BURNSIDE spoke next. On rising, he was greeted with cheers, repeated several times. He had intended to speak on business only, but the enthusiastic reception which he had met with first claimed a distinct and grateful recognition from him. He then briefly related the history of the Ninth Army Corps, from its organization in New-York, through the campaigns in North Carolina, in Virginia, in Maryland, in the Southwest and in East Tennessee. He stated that the Ninth Corps had never lost a color nor a gun, but, in its first three months' campaign in North Carolina had taken nearly 4,000 prisoners and over 150 pieces of artillery.

He explained that he did not approve of the policy of paying any additional hand-money to brokers, beyond that allowed by Government, for bringing in recruits to the military depots; but, as that policy had been adopted by other organizations with success, it became a necessity with the friends of the Ninth Army Corps to do likewise. To enable them to do so, a fund had been already raised by private subscription which was not yet exhausted, and until it should be, he would not call on his friends at the Produce Exchange for any further pecuniary aid. He, however, would advise the appointment of a committee of merchants to confer with the committee (headed by Mr. JAMES M. BROWN) of the old friends of the corps, and learn what was really necessary to be done to promote the good work, and this committee, in the event of further monetary aid being required, could make known to the Commercial Association the wants of the corps in this respect. He said the brokers naturally desired to get as much money as they could for bringing forward recruits for the army, and the friends of the corps would therefore have to pay the brokers as liberally as had been done by other organizations, or they could not obtain the men. The General then referred in very complimentary terms to Col. W. A. HOWARD, of the Thirteenth New-York Artillery, long connected with the Ninth Corps, who followed in a brief, pertinent and humorous address, approbatory of the hand-money policy and complimentary to his gallant Commander. He urged the merchants to contribute generously to the Ninth Army Corps, and they never would be sorry for aiding in raising 50,000 men for special service under Gen. BURNSIDE.

The Secretary then read the following resolutions:

Resolved, That this meeting, recognizing the unswerving loyalty, devoted patriotism, and eminent services to his country, of Maj.-Gen. A. E. BURNSIDE, do hereby welcome him to the floor of the Produce Exchange.

Resolved, That, appreciating the importance of Gen. BURNSIDE's present endeavors to fill up the ranks of the Ninth Army Corps, we recommend his efforts in this direction to the cordial sympathy and patriotic consideration of the members of this Association.

Resolved, That a Committee of five be now appointed by the Chair, to aid him in this work, by soliciting subscriptions and otherwise.

Mr. JAMES P. WALLACE moved the adoption of the resolutions, which motion was duly seconded, and carried unanimously.

Mr. BAXTER next designated the Committee, provided for in the resolutions, as follows: Messrs. E. W. Coleman, J. H. Holcomb, Benjamin C. Bogart, J. H. Herrick, and Ambrose Snow. No further business being before the meeting, it was declared adjourned.

DEAR SIR: I have received the petition that Congress will pass such laws as will put the soldiers of our army on the same footing as to bounty, pay and pensions, without regard to difference of complexion.

I have no doubt of the expediency or justice of such legislation. Yours, very truly,

THE GREAT AMERICAN REMEDIES
KNOWN AS
HELMBOLD'S GENUINE PREPARATIONS
"HIGHLY CONCENTRATED"
COMPOUND
FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU,
a positive and Specific Remedy for Diseases of the BLADDER, KIDNEYS, GRAVEL and DROPSICAL SWELLINGS.

This medicine increases the power of digestion and excites the absorbents into healthy action, by which the water or calcerous depositions, and all unnatural enlargements, are reduced, as well as pain and inflammation, and is good for Men, Women, or Children.

H

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU

For weaknesses arising from Excesses, Habits of Dissipation, Early Indiscretion or Abuse, attended with the following symptoms:

Indisposition to Exertion,	Loss of Power,
Loss of Memory,	Difficulty of Breathing,
Weak Nerves,	Trembling,
Horror of Disease,	Wakefulness,
Dimness of Vision,	Pain in the Back,
Hot Hands,	Flushing of the Body,
Dryness of the Skin,	Eruptions on the Face,
Universal Lassitude of the Muscular System.	Pallid Countenance,

These symptoms, if allowed to go on, which this medicine invariably removes, soon follow

IMPOTENCY, FATUITY, EPILEPTIC FITS.

In one of which the patient may expire. Who can say they are not frequently followed by those "direful diseases,"

INSANITY AND CONSUMPTION!

Many are aware of the cause of their suffering, but none will confess. The records of the Insane Asylums and the melancholy deaths by Consumption, bear ample witness to the truth of the assertion.

THE CONSTITUTION ONCE AFFECTED BY ORGANIC WEKNESS

requires the aid of medicine to strengthen and invigorate the system, which HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU invariably does. A trial will convince the most skeptical.

E

FEMALES! FEMALES! FEMALES!
OLD OR YOUNG, SINGLE, MARRIED OR CONTEMPLATING MARRIAGE.

In many affections peculiar to Females, the Extract Buchu is unequaled by any other remedy, as in Chlorosis or Retention, Irregularities, Painfulness, or Suppression of Customary Evacuations, Ulcerated or Scirrhous state of the Uterus, Loucorrhea or Whites, Sterility, and for all complaints incident to the sex, whether arising from Indiscretion, Habits of Dissipation, or in the DECLINE OR CHANGE OF LIFE.

See symptoms above.

NO FAMILY SHOULD BE WITHOUT IT.

L

CURES SECRET DISEASES

in all their stages, at little Expense; little or no change of Diet; no Inconvenience, AND NO EXPOSURE.

It causes frequent desire and gives strength to Urinate, thereby removing obstructions, preventing and curing strictures of the urethra, allaying pain and inflammation, so frequent in this class of diseases, and expelling POISONOUS, DISEASED AND WORN-OUT MATTER.

Thousands upon thousands who have been the VICTIMS OF QUACKS, and who have paid HEAVY FEES to be cured in a short time, have found they were deceived, and that the "Poison" has, by the use of "Powerful Astringents," been dried up in the system, to break out in an aggravated form, and,

PERHAPS, AFTER MARRIAGE.

M

USE HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU

For all affections and diseases of the Urinary Organs, whether existing

IN MALE OR FEMALE,

From whatever cause originating, and no matter of how long standing. Diseases of these Organs require the aid of a Diuretic.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU
IS THE GREAT DIURETIC,
AND IT IS CERTAIN TO HAVE THE DESIRED EFFECT IN ALL DISEASES FOR WHICH IT IS RECOMMENDED.

B

FLUID EXTRACT SARSAPARILLA.
SYPHILIS.

This is an affection of the blood, and attacks the sexual organs, linings of the nose, ears, throat, windpipe and other mucus surfaces, making its appearance in the form of ulcers. Helmbold's Extract Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, and removes all scaly eruptions of the skin, giving to the complexion a clear and healthy color. It being prepared expressly for this class of complaints, its blood-purifying properties are preserved to a greater extent than any other preparation of sarsaparilla.
